FOUR TWILIGHT FAMILIES ARE RENDERED DESTITUTE

Flames Destroy Two Double Houses Belonging to Vesta Coal Company.

BELONGINGS ARE BURNED

Conflagration Started on First Floor of House While Women Were in Cellar.

Fire rendered four families practically destitute at Twilight yesterday afternoon, when two double frame houses belonging to the Vesta Coal company were burned to the ground, with nearly all their contents. The flames broke out at about 4 o'clock in the house occupied by Mrs. Jane Roberts and burned so fiercely that practically nothing could be done to stay their progress.

Mrs. Roberts, with her three daughters and the husband of one of them, John Sherman and their family, resided in the house. The other three dwellings were occupied by Mrs. James Roberts, another daughter of Mrs. Jane Roberts, and her family; Mrs. Ralph Todd and family, and William Foulks and family.

The fire swept rapidly from the Mrs. Jane Roberts dwelling to the others licking up the frame structures almost in a twinkling. William Foulks succeeded in carrying out a few articles of furniture but these were the only things saved from the four houses.

The loss to the Vesta company on the buildings will total about $4,500, partially covered by insurance. The losses of the various families have not been estimated.

TALENTED READER WILL APPEAR AT W. AND J. CONCERT

S. C. Kerr Was a Student of Byron King and Has Enviable Reputation.

A novel feature of the W. and J. Glee and Mandolin club concert in Charleroi next Tuesday night will be the readings in costume. Mr. Kerr the reader is a pupil of Byron King, and has an excellent stage presence. His appearance in the garb of a simple rustic invariably brings down the house in uncontrollable laughter.

Both the glee and mandolin clubs are in the best of condition, and will appear in three numbers each. Several of their selections will be of the popular order, and several of a heavier type. It is also probable that a sextette from the glee club will appear in a number.

The soloists are of the best. They will appear in mandolin, banjo and vocal selections. The banjo soloist, Mr. Garrett, recently played for Farland, the world's greatest artist on this instrument, and was highly praised for his ability. The instrument Mr. Garrett uses is over 100 years old and possesses a soft beautiful tone.

Charleroi Woman Seeks a Divorce

Claims Husband Tried to Shoot Her, at Meat Market, Here Last Winter.

Mrs. Guillemina Wilson of Charleroi, has been awarded a subpoena in divorce against her husband, Dallas Wilson. Cruel and barbarous treatment is alleged. The action is the direct outcome of the attempt of Dallas Wilson to shoot his wife at Dunlap's meat market last winter.

TENER IS POPULAR IN BEAVER

Congressman Tendered Great Ovation by Republicans in That County.

WHAT NEWSPAPERS SAY

Congressman J. K. Tener is popular in Beaver county, the same as he is in Washington county. On the subject of Mr. Tener's recent visit to Beaver Falls, where he was tendered a banquet, the New Brighton News has the following to say:

"Hon. John K. Tener, of Charleroi, Congressman from this district, was the guest of honor at a meeting of the Regular Republican Club of Beaver county, held last night at Benson's hall, Beaver Falls. Fully three hundred members of the organization, among these a party of 15 or 20 from Ambridge, gave Mr. Tener a rousing reception as he entered the hall. J. L. Homes, Esq., of Beaver, president of the club, presided.

"Mr. Holmes called upon Mr. Tener who made an address touching upon the work done by Congress, dwelling particularly upon the action taken to improve the Ohio river from Pittsburg to Cairo. Mr. Tener is a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee and did splendid work for the river interests. Mr. Tener expressed pleasure in being permitted to again meet such a large number of representative citizens, and at the close of his address was given a hearty ovation.

"Mr. Holmes then introduced candidates for State Delegates indorsed by the club, C. C. Hazen of New Brighton; John Mack of Beaver Falls; Robt. W. Darrah of Beaver, and Mont D. Youtes of Monaca. A half hour was given over for getting acquainted with these candidates, and also to shake hands with Mr. Tener, who will be a candidate for Congress in June.

"When the meeting was again called to order, a resolution was offered that, in the event of the next candidate for Governor being chosen from the eastern part of the State the Regular Republican Club endorse Hon. John W. Carson, editor of the Beaver Falls Review, for Lieutenant Governor. The resolution was adopted unanimously and Mr. Carson was called upon for a speech. Mr. Carson thanked the organization for their endorsement and added that in the event of the candidate for Governor being taken from the western part of the State, which may be the case, as Congressman Tener is already spoken of in that connection, he would recognize the fact that the candidate for Lieutenant Governor would naturally fall to the other end of the State and he would gracefully acquiesce to the will of the people.

"The meeting was large and enthusiastic and members were present from every section of the county. Another meeting will be held in two weeks at the same place."

Tomorrow, which brings about the close of The Mail and Mirror Great Prize Contest, will be a day of many surprises to the public and the various contestants.

Some of the candidates have voted nearly all they had, while others have been playing the "dark horse" plan. It remains to be seen just who have out-generaled their competitors. The world loves a winner, and we are ALL ready to take our hats off to the ones who win the honors and prizes in this hotly contested battle supremacy.

THE JUDGES TO COUNT THE VOTES.

The following gentlemen will canvass the last days returns in the popularity contest conducted by The Mail Publishing company. They are all well known business men and their count will be ABSOLUTE and FINAL:

Mr. C. W. Weltner.
Mr. J. W. McKean.
Mr. S. W. Sharpnack.

THIS RULE IS POSITIVE.

If candidates are unable to get votes in return for their subscriptions before 9 p. m. Saturday night their subscription books and the cash to cover them will be placed in an envelope and dropped in the ballot box and counted by the judges according to the regular scale of votes. Thus it is possible for a candidate to make his final effort in the dark, hidden even from the Contest Manager, with the amount of his last vote getting known only to the judges.

SHOULD A TIE OCCUR.

In case of a tie for any of the prizes offered in this contest the value of the prize or prizes thus tied for will be equally divided between two contestants who tie for same.

ABOUT THE FINISH.

Not a cent will be accepted in this contest after 9 p. m. Saturday. At that time the ballot box will be finally closed and the key handed over to the gentlemen who will judge the finish of the contest. They will open the ballot box and count what has been turned in during the day.

Standing of Contestants as Counted Yesterday.

LARGE CROWDS AT MILLINERY OPENING OF MRS. STEWART

The opening of Mrs. V. B. Stewart's millinery store on Fallowfield avenue was held on Wednesday and Thursday, and on both days large crowds thronged the store. The store is filled with a display of the finest, the latest in the millinery line. This is the store that was formerly owned and occupied by Miss E. J. Fotser.

During Opening Days we are selling 9c Lancaster Ginghams at 7c. Special lot Fancy Calicoes at 5 1-2c. A 10c. rough crash at 7c. Berryman's. 184t2

PEOPLE THROW THEIR GARBAGE ON RAILROAD

Railroad officials of this division are watching parties who are guilty of the practice of dumping garbage on the tracks, and on other railroad property. The offenders live all along the division, although some places are worse than others. From Charleroi to Monongahela the practice has become very noticeable, and at the latter place people even go to the extreme of dumping garbage on the car bumpers.

Freight riders are becoming fewer, if anything now, on account of the stringent measures that were taken with offenders. In the past few months many arrested for freight riding have been sent to jail to serve terms there. The officers are also watching closely for coal thieves.

CHARLEROI MAY HAVE AUTO PATROL IN NEAR FUTURE

TO RAISE SUBSCRIPTIONS

Local Officers Tired of Old Fashioned Method of the "Wheelbarrow" Patrol."

A movement has been started for the purpose of securing an automobile police partol for Charleroi, and from the response, the originators of the idea are sanguine of success. It is proposed to raise enough money by subscription and in various other ways with which to purchase a machine.

The idea was first thought of by members of the police force, and it is they who are boosting it. It is probable that a paper will be out next week for subscriptions. Already several have promised to give liberally to the project. It is planned to give one or more enertainments, Robert S. Coyle, proprietor of the Coyle Theatre, having promised to arrange to give the use of the theatre free.

A machine of the kind desired would cost in the neighorhood of $1,300 or $1,400. Monessen has a wagon patrol, but on account of the time in preparing it for use it is not of much benefit to the borough.

Charleroi's patrol in the past has consisted of a wheelbarrow, trundled by one officer while another, or a citizen drafted into service, held the offender on the affair. This is not the most up-to-date equipment in the world, and the police are anxious to have something better.

Meeting Postponed Until Next Week

Not Enough Guarantors Present at Session Last Night.

Because there were not enough of the guarantors of the Citizens Entertainment course present at the meeting last night at the store of T. F. Lindsay on Fifth street, the called meeting was postponed until Thursday evening of next week at the borough building. It is desired to make arrangements at this time for making up the slight deficit and discussing the feasibility of securing a good course for next year.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVANCE IN CHURCHES

Most Solemn Day in Holy Week Today Being Specially Commemorated.

SERVICES HOLY SATURDAY

Good Friday is being specially observed in the Catholic churches throughout the country, and in the Protestant Episcopal and Lutheran churches with appropriate services. The day is a legal holiday and in Charleroi the schools and banks are closed.

At St. Jerome's Catholic church this morning at 7:30 there was the "Adoration of the Cross," followed by the "Mass of the Presanctified." Rev. T. A. Conners conducted the services appearing in black vestments before the sacred altars. On Holy Saturday morning service will be held at 7 o'clock. This day is more closely associated with the most joyous feasts of Easter day, than it is with the other and sadder days of Holy Week. The triple candle, emblematic of the life of Christ, and the paschal candle, which is a symbol of Christ risen from the dead, will be blessed and lighted. At Christ Lutheran church tonight at 7:30 o'clock there will be a special service, and the pastor, Rev. C. E. Frontz, will deliver an appropriate sermon, on the topic, "Christ on the Cross." Special services were held on Wednesday and yesterday, Holy Thursday, conducted by Rev. Frontz.

During the week special services have been held at St. Mary's Episcopal church. Last evening, Maundy Thursday, there was a celebration of the holy communion. This morning at 10:30 a service was held and a sermon delivered by the pastor, Rev. L. W. Shey, on the subject "The Crucifixion." Evening prayer and sermon will be said at 4 o'clock. On Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, the sacrament of baptism will be observed.

100 men are wanted this week at the Berryman Store to buy a new suit in that new clothing department—every garment new and up-to-date and our quality guarantee back for every suit. Berryman's, Charleroi, Pa. 184t2

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIAL CLUB TO HAVE GOOD TIMES

A young people's society to be known as the Baptist Social Gleaners Club was formed at a meeting held at the First Baptist church last evening. Officers were elected as follows: President, Rev. Clifford S. Joshua; vice president, Jay Reeves; secretary, Miss Erma Holyfield; assistant secretary, Miss Jessie Everhart; treasurer, Henry Frye; organist, Mrs. Harry Burkhart.

Meetings will be held once every month, the first to be on Thursday April 7. These are to be generally social, a literary program to constitute a principal part. The purpose of the society is for the advancement of social conditions and anyone may become a member.

We Sell The Marvel Self-Working Washer

The wonderful invention that enables you or your housemaid to attend to the regular household duties while the clothes are being washed—washed sweet and clean.

Attach the hose to the faucet and turn on the water—that is all you have to do. Washes a tubful of clothes in from 7 to 15 minutes without rubbing or tearing. The gentle, rotary motion forces the water through the fabric, takes out all the dirt. Washes heavy blankets or dainty lingerie equally well.

Buy a Marvel. Save yourself from the work and worry of wash-day. Save your clothes from the wear and tear of the wash-board. Save your laundry bill. This means actual dollars to you, and the Marvel costs only $15. It pays for itself over and over in one year. It is positively guaranteed.

Runs itself by ordinary water-works pressure.

Come in and see the "Marvel."

DOING THE CZAR.

A Display of Quick Wit by the Comedian Martineff.

During an interview which Martineff, the comedian and mimic, had succeeded in obtaining with Prince Volkhonsky, high steward, the emperor walked into the room unexpectedly, yet with a design, as was soon made evident.

Telling the actor that he had heard of his talents and should like to see a specimen of them, he bade him mimic the old minister. The feat was performed with so much gusto that the emperor laughed immoderately and then, to the great horror of the poor actor, desired to have himself "taken off."

"'Tis physically impossible," pleaded Martineff.

"Nonsense!" said Nicholas. "I insist on its being done."

Finding himself on the horns of a dilemma, the mimic took heart of grace and, with a promptitude and presence of mind that probably saved him, buttoned his coat over his breast, expanded his chest, threw up his head and, assuming the imperial part to the best of his power, strode across the room and back; then, standing opposite the minister, he cried in the exact tone and manner of the czar:

"Volkhonsky, pay M. Martineff 1,000 silver rubles!"

The emperor for a moment was disconcerted; but, recovering himself with a smile, he ordered the money to be paid.

Poultry Notes.

Duck eggs lose their fertility very rapidly, hence should be comparatively fresh when placed in an incubator or under a hen.

Cleanliness in the poultry yard is worth a whole medicine chest full of remedies in preventing disease.

Whenever young chickens are taken from the nest while the hatch is in progress care must be taken that they do not become chilled, night or day.

Gapes In Fowl.

Gapes is the name of a condition caused by worms in the windpipe of the fowl. It may be treated successfully with a feather stripped to a small tuft at the end. Dip it in pure zenoleum, and as the chicken breathes insert it in the windpipe and turn it a few times. This loosens the worms, and they are coughed up. Some use turpentine in the same way and often with good results.

A Handy Pole.

Every farmer should have a good ten foot pole. Pine or basswood dressed down to an inch and a quarter square makes a good one. Cut it exactly ten feet long; then lay it off with a scratch awl into lengths of one foot each. The marks may afterward be blackened with ink or pencil. Half foot lengths are also handy. Keep the pole where it will be straight and dry.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

The number of British horses bred is falling off at the rate of nearly 4,000 a year.

Not more than sixty-four persons can be registered as owners of any one British ship.

Hampstead Heath is the highest part of London. It rises 424 feet, or eighty-four feet above the cross of St. Paul's.

In the year 787 there were three archbishops in England—Canterbury, York and Lichfield. The latter was suppressed within half a century.

As long ago as 1710 handkerchiefs were made on which were printed the map of England, with distances of the principal towns from London.

The Fulham borough council, London, has agreed to allow the use of its public baths for baptisms by immersion. The scale of charges is furnished on application.

A complete skeleton of an okapi, the skull of which is a most remarkable specimen, has been sent to the British museum by Major Powell Cotton. In addition there is a beautifully marked and perfect skin.

A Curious Receipt.

Hanover's registrar discovered a very curious document some time ago as he was looking through a bundle of papers that date back to the eighteenth century. The document is a receipt—probably the only one of its kind in existence which was given to a Hanoverian captain by a canon of Dunsburg during the Seven Years' war.

"I, the undersigned," it reads, "hereby acknowledge that I have received fifty blows of a stick which were inflicted upon me by a lieutenant of Captain B's regiment as a punishment for the stupid and frivolous calumnies which I have uttered in regard to the regiment of chasseurs. For my imprudent words I now admit that I am profoundly sorry. I received my punishment lying on a heap of straw and held by two men, and I bear testimony to the fact that the officer struck me as vigorously as he could with a stick that was as thick as my finger.

"In proper form and with due gratitude I sign this receipt and avow that all therein is true."

The Forecast.

Husband—Well, what did the phrenologist say about Willie's head? Wife—Nothing. He simply sighed and handed me my money back. Husband—Just as I expected. He's going to be a poet.—Exchange.

Why He Was Unpopular.

When first made bishop of Stepney Dr. Winnington Ingram was anything but popular and indeed had occasionally to seek police protection. Greatly worried, the bishop tried to trace the cause and found one lady who was able to enlighten him.

"It's your white shirt, sir," she said. "We don't want no white shirted gentry here. Try a gray shirt and a dickey, like our chaps wear on Sunday."

The advice tendered was promptly acted upon, and thus the present bishop of London made the first advance toward close friendship with his people.—London Graphic.

Small Fruit Cultivation.

Surplus suckers in blackberry or red raspberry patches should be treated just like weeds. Don't let the rows get too wide nor too thick. But do not hoe up all the new shoots coming up in the row. Remember that your berry crop next year will be borne on canes which are grown this season.

The Strawberry Bed.

Pick off all the blossoms from newly set strawberry beds; thus you send all the plants' strength back into themselves—into growth. It is unwise to let plants fruit the first season.

WOMEN WANT TO FLY.

But Only One So Far Has Invented Her Own Machine.

Interest in the science of flying has not been confined to men. Women also have taken to aerial navigation with enthusiasm. But, as the aeroplane still remains a thing of questionable safety, few of them have been allowed to take the risk. It is interesting to know, says Vogue, that it was a woman, Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, who conceived the idea of forming the Aerial Experiment association, of which her husband was the most conspicuous member. Mrs. Bell suggested the formation of the association and made the proposition to furnish the funds with which to carry on the experiments.

More than fifty women in this country have made ascents in spherical balloons, but Mrs. C. J. S. Miller of Franklin, Pa., holds the record of being the only woman to go up in a dirigible. Wilbur Wright has taken up six women, including his sister Miss Katherine Wright, Mrs. Leo Rollee, Mrs. Lazar Weiler, Countess Lambert and Mrs. Hart Berg. While staying in Paris Miss Anne Morgan witnessed a flight and immediately asked Mr. Wright to take her up, but at that time it was not considered safe to do so. Miss Morgan is deeply interested in the subject, and it is said that she wishes to form an aeronautic club.

Miss E. L. Todd of New York is the first woman to invent an aeroplane. She now has her machine ready for the installment of the motor and expects to drive it herself. Among other prominent American women who have made ascensions in spherical balloons are Mrs. Cortlandt Field Bishop, Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar of New York, Mrs. C. A. Cody of Chicago and Miss Natalie Forbes, daughter of A. Holland Forbes. Mrs. Cody, who is an enthusiastic navigator of the air, declares that she felt less alarm in making her first balloon ascent than she did when taking her first automobile ride.

HANDY COOKING UTENSIL.

A Fuel Saving Device That Cooks Three Vegetables at Once.

Time, money and space are saved by the cooking utensils designed by an Ohio man, and all housekeepers will readily understand the merits of this article by merely glancing at the illustration. This utensil consists of a stew pan with three separate compartments in which three vegetables may be cooked at once over one lid of a stove or one flame of a gas range. The pan comprises a skeleton frame of bottom and top hoops and side bars and three receptacles, one taking up half of the capacity and the others being quarters. Each of these receptacles has a clip which fits over the rim of the frame and by which it may be lifted into place or out again. As each of these vessels is separate it is not necessary that the vegetables to be cooked in them require the same length of time. As one is done the partition can be lifted out. Such a utensil when used on a gas stove uses up only one-third as much gas as under ordinary conditions.

Gloom Spread by Book Agents.

"When I was a small boy living in Huntsville, Mo., an early day book agent came up from St. Louis by steamboat and flooded our country with a harrowing volume entitled 'Agnes—The Key to Her Coffin.' Everybody bought the thing and everybody wept over it," remarked a Macon resident. "Its influence descended upon the community like a nightmare. It reeked with shrouds, funerals and graveyards. For a long while 'The Key to Agnes' Coffin' was the sole diversion of certain portions of the populace. They seemed to take a pure and chastened joy in the awful weight of woe that oozed out from between its lids, and it made them feel better. There were not many books in the country in those days, and the sagacious agent had sized the community's taste up about right. The book was supposed to be very consoling to the distressed in that it told of worse troubles than their own."—Macon Republican.

Successful Ugly Women.

Successful women were not always of irreproachable beauty or modeling. Thus the Princess d'Evoli of Louis XV.'s time was one eyed; the slit of Montespan's mouth reached her ears; Mme. de Maintenon was thin, meager, yellowish; La Valliere lame, Gabrielle d'Estrees one armed, Anne Boleyn six fingered.—Hindustan Review.

The Grand—Pittsburg.

The Grand in Pittsburg offers for the week beginning Monday, March 28, a bill of vaudeville entirely commensurate with the high standard which Manager Harry Davis has so consistently maintained throughout this and previous seasons. One of the prime attractions will be the first appearance in Pittsburg of Johnny Hyams and Leila McIntyre in their new sketch "The Quakeress." Funny Mr. Hyams and clever Miss McIntyre have been here quite frequently, but never in this act, which is the hit pre eminent of their careers. Leila McIntrye has no peer on the stage as child impersonator. Her songs and dances reveal the soubrette-comedienne in her happiest forte and her pretty little stories of child life, of infantile fancy and whimsicality are about the most delicious piece of characterization that vaudeville has. Mr. Hyams, on the other hand, is boardly eccentric and at times even grotesque.

Another attraction of superlative interest will be the presentation of a character comedy in one act entitled "Uncle Lem's Dilemma." The play is from the pen of Edward Locke of Pittsburg. The interpreting company is that of Henry Horton and his associate players, including Miss Louise Hardenburgh. "Uncle Lem's Dilemma" is said to be an original rustic comedy. The story creates the trouble of "Uncle Lem" in telling his daughter that he is about to marry again and his efforts to induce her to marry the boy she loves instead of staying with father until he dies. By playing upon the feminine predilection for contradictions he finally accomplishes both his purposes, the while keeping his audience in infectious laughter.

Ablert Hole, England's famous boy soprano, will give a repertoire of songs, classical and otherwise. His voice has a wonderul compass, is of pure, lyric soprano quality and a register that permits him to sing up and down the scale at random.

Grand patrons will be glad to see Mr. Bert Levy again, for of all entertainers of the artistic profession this gentlemanly cartoonist is the most popular. By means of his special pictoral apparatus, he entertains his audience in a unique manner. He drawns a picture on a small piece of lamp blacked glass, showing the picture in its progress of development.

Something absolutely new in the trained animal line is promised by Duncan's Royal Scotch Collies. They are a dozen of the brightest, classiest and most winning canines that ever came from the land of heather and are put through their various stunts by Professor Duncan and his assistant.

Harry Linton and Anita Lawrence will be seen in a new musical trifle entitled "The Piano Store." Their cleverness is conceded and it is said the act of this season is far superior to anything they have done in the east.

Hoey and Lee, Hebrew comedians and parodists, will entertain with humorous characterizations, inoffensively true to life.

MacGregor's Royal Highland musicians will play on various instruments.

The Nixon---Pittsburg.

Fritzi Scheff's new comic opera, "The Prima Donna" in which she comes to the Nixon next week. direct from a long run at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, requires a cast of very accomplished actors, as well as singers, and several of the actors are not called upon to sing a note, this beng left to those especially trained for it. It assures that the play must have dramatic worth. as well as musical value. Henry Blossom's witty yet dramatic book has, however, only spurred Victor Herbert on to more ambitious efforts with his music, and the great composer is said to have written at his very best for Fritzi Scheff. She has a waltz song that is marvelously tuneful and dainty, and an aria that enables her to show that she is easily the greatest soprano who has ever sung in light opera in this country.

The story of "The Prima Donna" concerns Mlle Atheaes, the reigning prima donna of Paris, who becomes stalled by an automobile accident at a cafe chantant, in a small back town. She goes into the Cafe Chantant while her chauffeur is endeavoring to repair the machine, and there she hears old Bob Gundlefinger, the musical director of the place, scolding a sick singer. The sympathetic Athenes, (Fritzi Scheff) helps the struggling singer, and in a moment of daring, says she will sing herself. She sings a song written by an officer at the neigboring barracks, and makes a great hit with it. This is the waltz theme referred to above. The prima dona and the officer fall in love with each other and another officer intervens and insults her grossly. The opera is mounted in the usual lavish Dillingham manner and the costuming is rich and vari-colored. There will be a matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

The Palace---Charleroi

"The Girl Burglar," somewhat on the order of Mrs. Fisk's famous play, "Leah Kleschna," was most graphically shown in life motion pictures at the Palace Theatre this week. The girl burglar and her brother plan to rob a minister, a widower. The girl engages as a governess to the little son of the minister, but here romance creeps in, and the girl and the minister fall in love with each other. Realizing her unworthiness the girl flees, and resumes her old life. Caught in a hotel burglary by the minister whom she loves, the girl is saved from prison. She renoucnes her evil life and three years later, as a trained nurse, again meets the minister and all ends well. The open air concerts of the Palace are once more the big drawing cards they were all through last season. These concerts are given nightly and large crowds assemble on the street to listen to the excellent music.

New Duquesne---Pittsburg.

The Harry Davis stock company, at the New Duquesne theatre, which is this week giving such a sumptous production of "The Sign of the Cross," will next week be seen in that delighful and highly hilarious farce comedy by the late Charles H. Hoyt, "A Temperance Town," the same being a most entertaining satire on local option. It teems with human interest. The characters are just like persons you meet in everyday life and there is no end of fun. Miss Kemble, Mr. Hansel, Mark Kent, Frederic Summer, Miss Howe. Miss Dills, Mr. Greenstreet, Miss Carroll, Mr. Day, Mrs. Campbell and other members of the excellent organization Mr. Davis has given to Greater Pittsburg will have full and wide scope to again demonstrate his or her versatility. Next Monday afternoon handsome Rosser photos of Mr. Sydney Greenstreet will be presentted to each and every lady attending the performance. The same attractive scale of price will prevail, and it is suggested that those who wish to witness the performances take precaution to order their seats in advance.

The Grand—Pittsburg.

The Grand in Pittsburg offers for the week beginning Monday, March 28, a bill of vaudeville entirely commensurate with the high standard which Manager Harry Davis has so consistently maintained throughout this and previous seasons. One of the prime attractions will be the first appearance in Pittsburg of Johnny Hyams and Leila McIntyre in their new sketch "The Quakeress." Funny Mr. Hyams and clever Miss McIntyre have been here quite frequently, but never in this act, which is the hit pre eminent of their careers. Leila McIntrye has no peer on the stage as child impersonator. Her songs and dances reveal the soubrette-comedienne in her happiest forte and her pretty little stories of child life of infantile fancy and whimsicality are about the most delicious piece of characterization that vaudeville has. Mr. Hyams, on the other hand, is boardly eccentric and at times even grotesque.

Another attraction of superlative interest will be the presentation of a character comedy in one act entitled "Uncle Lem's Dilemma." The play is from the pen of Edward Locke of Pittsburg. The interpreting company is that of Henry Horton and his associate players, including Miss Louise Hardenburgh. "Uncle Lem's Dilemma" is said to be an original rustic comedy. The story creates the trouble of "Uncle Lem" in telling his daughter that he is about to marry again and his efforts to induce her to marry the boy she loves instead of staying with father until he dies. By playing upon the feminine predilection for contradictions he finally accomplishes both his purposes, the while keeping his audience in infectious laughter.

Ablert Hole, England's famous boy soprano, will give a repertoire of songs, classical and otherwise. His voice has a wonderul compass, is of pure, lyric soprano quality and a register that permits him to sing up and down the scale at random.

Grand patrons will be glad to see Mr. Bert Levy again, for of all entertainers of the artistic profession this gentlemanly cartoonist is the most popular. By means of his special pictoral apparatus, he entertains his audience in a unique manner. He drawns a picture on a small piece of lamp blacked glass, showing the picture in its progress of development.

Something absolutely new in the trained animal line is promised by Duncan's Royal Scotch Collies. They are a dozen of the brightest, classiest and most winning canines that ever came from the land of heather and are put through their various stunts by Professor Duncan and his assistant.

Harry Linton and Anita Lawrence will be seen in a new musical trifle entitled "The Piano Store." Their cleverness is conceded and it is said the act of this season is far superior to anything they have done in the east.

The Nixon—Pittsburg.

Fritzi Scheff's new comic opera, "The Prima Donna" in which she comes to the Nixon next week, direct from a long run at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, requires a cast of very accomplished actors, as well as singers, and several of the actors are not called upon to sing a note, this beng left to those especially trained for it. It assures that the play must have dramatic worth, as well as musical value. Henry Blossom's witty yet dramatic book has, however, only spurred Victor Herbert on to more ambitious efforts with his music, and the great composer is said to have written at his very best for Fritzi Scheff. She has a waltz song that is marvelously tuneful and dainty, and an aria that enables her to show that she is easily the greatest soprano who has ever sung in light opera in this country.

The story of "The Prima Donna" concerns Mlle Atheaes, the reigning prima donna of Paris, who becomes stalled by an automobile accident at a cafe chantant, in a small back town. She goes into the Cafe Chantant while her chauffeur is endeavoring to repair the machine, and there she hears old Bob Gundlefinger, the musical director of the place, scolding a sick singer. The sympathetic Athenes, (Fritzi Scheff) helps the struggling singer, and in a moment of daring, says she will sing herself. She sings a song written by an officer at the neigboring barracks, and makes a great hit with it. This is the waltz theme referred to above. The prima dona and the officer fall in love with each other and another officer intervens and insults her grossly. The opera is mounted in the usual lavish Dillingham manner and the costuming is rich and vari-colored. There will be a matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

Good Friday.

Today, Good Frday, is being observed with solemn import by all the Catholic and many of the Protestant churches throughout Christendom. Commemorating as it does the anniverary of Christ's death, it is designated as a day of sorrow and mourning, and the ritualistic ceremonies observed today have special reference to the circumstances of Christ's death and entombment. It is the saddest anniversary in the whole calendar of church celebrations.

The special significance to be derived from the observance of Good Friday is the spirit of redemption accomplished by the tragic event of this anniversary. In early times this was manifested by a spirit of tolerance and forgiveness somewhat foreign to the times. In church affairs it was customary to release public penitents from their probation and the excommunicated from their ban. In civil life the courts were lenient on this day. Prisoners were liberated, exiles recalled and slaves were manumitted in remembrance of Christ's death. While this literal application of the significance of the anniversary is no longer practiced, the spirit of humanity, forgiveness and Christian charity was never stronger, and the anniversary of the death of the Son of Man is a most fitting time to recall these attributes into active being.

Concerning Mr. Kennedy.

T. L. Kennedy of New Brighton has announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district to oppose Congressman J. K. Tener, who is also a candidate for re-election. The Washington Record, which has looked up Mr. Kennedy's political career, has this to say of his candidacy and the political situation in the district:

"The announcement that T. L. Kennedy of New Brighton will be a candidate for Congress in this district will meet with little response. A servile vassal of the old Quay regime, he became the slated candidate for Assembly in Beaver county. He voted for Quay for Senator thereby exhibiting that great independence in politics which he never possessed. The next year, in 1902, he again became a candidate and had the backing of the old Quay machine, and despite the usual custom of two terms he demonstrated his strong popularity by being defeated. While it is true that he was out the next time, yet the fact that under such circumstances, he was defeated, demonstrates he is not Congressional timber.

"There have at many times in the past, been very potent arguments promulgated in favor of keeping a Congressman in your own county. These are just as feasible now as they were then. We heard many arguments two years ago as to why a representative should be retained in Congress, and that the district would be handicapped by a newly-elected man. This in general is true, but when as was the fact two years ago when a candidate of mediocre ability and years of experience was pitted against a candidate of marked ability but without experience, it is not surprising that the latter won. We were told that it would take several terms for John K. Tener, when elected, to get on the Rivers and Harbors committee. It did take his predecessor, it would take Mr. Kennedy but it did not take Mr. Tener.

"It has been an uphill undertaking to get a candidate to run against Mr. Tener. The logical candidate was Robert K. Aiken of New Castle, but he having looked over the ground passed it up. J. D. Davidson was spoken of but he absolutely declined to run Judge J. Sharpe Wilson was mentioned but he said, "Not for Joseph, if he knows it."

"T. L. Kennedy seems to be Hobson's choice of those opposed to Tener, and a very poor one at that. His announcement is an insult to the voters of the district when he says that our county cast 3,000 illegal votes under the present primary system; such is an absolute impossibility. Mr. Kennedy will be called on to substantiate this slander during the campaign. He will be called on to explain why he cast the deciding vote in favor of Quay in 1901. He will find himself and his Congressional aspirants buried beneath an avalanche of votes on the evening of June 4."

Mr. Tener, who is Charleroi's favorite son, as a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee is making a reputation for himself in Congress during his first term. He is no less popular in his home town and county, as well as throughout the entire district, than when he received such an overwhelming vote at the primary which gave him the nomination in 1908.

Home Trade.

A glance at the advertising columns of the Mail today reveals the fact that not only are Charleroi merchants up-to date and alive to the times in the stocks they carry, but that there is a sufficient variety in all classes of merchandise carried here to satisfy every rational requirement. No persons need to go out of town to get what they want to eat, wear or to furnish and adorn their homes. Everything in that line can be purchased right here in Charleroi.

In presenting and exploiting their wares to the public, as they do today, the Charleroi business people, in addition to serving their personal interests. are promoting the importance of Charleroi as a whole. Today's issue of the Mail, which circulates widely up and down the river, shows that there are not only a few live business places in Charleroi but a whole lot of them. This conveys a most pleasing impression to the out-of-town reader, who instinctively imbibes the idea that Charleroi is a good town to go to. In addition to getting what one wants, there are other things to see and learn something about in the line of future purchases. Charleroi will get a big boost in prestige by the business announcements in this issue of the Mail.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The graft cases in Pittsburg have demontrated that there is honor among thieves—especially when they get caught in a tight place.

United States Senators are to be massaged at the public expense if the latest move is a go. That's sort of rubbing it in on your Uncle Samuel.

The only trouble with that automobile patrol is that it might stimulate some of the tipsters to get inebriated too often in order that they could get a joy ride.

The Syrian who got in the lockup and refused to hike when released has a better sense of justice than several of these Pittsburg councilmen.

The New York World seems to think that President Taft is a stranger on the streets of Washington, D. C. They apparently forgot that he is in a whole lot closer touch than they themselves are.

To the people who last year lived in the ninth flat, and who this year live in the eighteenth, there is little consolation in the thought that they are getting nearer heaven.

They're talking about that Braddock trail once more. What good does it do a lot of fellows to walk over that ground again? Why don't they do something that has some up-to-dateness to it, for instance, play baseball?

People are becoming much interested in that on-coming prize fight. So much so that three-fourths of them do not know when the baseball season opens.

New York has nothing on Charleroi when it comes to lavish styles in hats. For proof watch for the Easter parade.

Some men are born rich, others achieve riches through hard work, while still others become wealthy through a lucky marriage.

That contest of the Mail and the Mirror is going to close tomorrow and then there is going to be a happy fellow some place. Wonder who it will be?

To gain notoriety a fellow can become a beer agent, and do all kinds of illegal business for a month or so without getting caught, and then get the county detective on his trail.

ETIQUETTE.

An Old Fashioned Man Frees His Mind About Its Absurdities.

"Whether to eat fish with a fish knife and fork or a fork and a bit of bread, whether to serve champagne in a tumbler or a goblet—it is quite absurd to regard one of these courses as right and the other as wrong and to admire or despise a person accordingly. The average rule of etiquette has nothing to do with courtesy, with good breeding, and it is no criterion of courtesy or of good breeding."

"Smile at me, nephews and nieces," he resumed, "because I tuck my napkin under my chin. Yet why should I spoil my black broadcloth coat with turkey stains or smears of cranberry sauce? It is a rule of etiquette, you say, that the napkin may only be placed across the knee—an absurd, ephemeral rule!

"It was a rule of etiquette in France during the reign of 'Le Roi Soleil,' the great Louis XIV., that when the king visited a sick subject the king, too, must lie down in a bed, on the ground that it would never do for a subject to maintain a more informal attitude than his master during the audience. Louis XIV., visiting the Marshal de Villars after Malplaquet, lay in a bed beside the suffering soldier in that way.

"Behold the absurdities of etiquette and let me do with my napkin what I please."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THE FOREIGN LEGION.

A Peculiar Body of Fighters in the French Army.

The French foreign legion is a heterogeneous organization. It is composed of disappointed men of every country—political refugees, military fugitives. In fact, all varieties of the world's restless citizens go to make up this wonderful mongrel fighting machine. "No questions asked" might well be the regimental motto. Each man signing his bond of service sells his soul for five years at the wage of 1 sou (about 1 cent) per day.

The officers are French, but the men hail from everywhere and nowhere. Under various names the French legion has existed since the eighteenth century and was finally constituted as at present in 1830. It consists of twelve battalions divided into two regiments, mustering a total strength of 12,000 men. Eight thousand are kept in the far east, the remainder serving in northern Africa. In the early days the regiments were divided into "national sections," men from the same country being kept together.

This resulted, however, in continual racial disputes, and each company consequently was given a cosmopolitan composition. Since its formation the officials have guarded closely against desertions, and as the legion only serves in French colonial territory where the centers are remote and transportation is difficult a successful desertion is a rare feat.—Chicago News.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Little Helen Bentley of Los Angeles, aged five, dearly loves her grandma, who has been living with her and her parents. Recently grandma went to Seattle for a visit and caught cold on the way. When she arrived there, she wrote back to Helen's parents that she had reached Seattle, but had had a hard fight with the grip. Helen wanted to hear what grandma had to say, and the letter was read to her. Soon afterward she saw one of her neighbors and exclaimed: "Oh, Mrs. Smith, we've had a letter from grandma. She got to Seattle all right, but she had a terrible fight with her valise!"—Los Angeles Times.

Disraeli's Jokes.

Disraeli dearly loved a joke at the expense of others. An author who had sent his latest effort in fiction to him received the following complimentary acknowledgment.

"I thank you for the book you sent me and will lose no time in reading it."

"I wonder what makes my eyes so weak," a fierce Radical once said to Disraeli.

"It is because they are in a weak place" was the reply.

An incident in the life of the late Lord Rosslyn shows how acute was the sense of humor in Disraeli. "What can we do with Rossyln?" he asked of a colleague.

"Make him master of the buckhounds, as his father was," suggested the latter.

"No," replied the premier; "he swears far too much for that. We will make him high commissioner to the Church of Scotland." And such he was made.—Chambers' Journal.

How About a Good Back View?

"Auntie Liz had a hard time having her picture taken today," said her nephew, who had just opened a photographic studio and had very courteously asked his aunt to come and pose for a new picture.

"Why, what was the trouble?" asked his brother.

"Well, you see, when I told her to look pleasant she didn't look natural, and when I told her to look natural she didn't look pleasant."—Ladies' Home Journal.

ANCIENT BELLS.

They Were Often Quadrangular and Made of Thin Iron Plates.

There are several old bells in Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The oldest are often quadrangular, being made of thin iron plates which have been hammered and riveted together. At the monastery of St. Gall in Switzerland the four sided bell of the Irish missionary St. Gall, who lived in the seventh century, is still preserved, but more ancient still is the bell of St. Patrick in Belfast, which is ornamented with gold and gems and silver filigree work.

The curfew bell is that about which most has been written and said. It has been thought that it was only used in England, but it was quite common on the continent in the middle ages.

The ringing of bells by rope is still very popular in England, especially in the country, where almost every hamlet, however small, has its church with its peal of bells, which are often remarkably well rung. The first real peal of bells in England was sent by Pope Calixtus III. to King's college, Cambridge, and was for 300 years the largest peal in England. About the beginning of the year 1500 sets of eight bells were hung in a few of the large churches.

In the middle of the seventeenth century a man named White wrote a famous work on bells in which he introduced the system of numbering them 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., on slips of paper in different orders, according to the changes intended to be rung. It is calculated that to ring all the changes upon twenty-four bells at two strokes a second would take 117 billion years.

One of the most famous bells in the world is the first great bell of Moscow, which now stands in the middle of a square in that city and is used as a chapel. This bell was cast in 1733, but was in the earth for over a hundred years, being raised in 1836 by the Emperor Nicholas. It is nearly twenty feet high, has a circumference of sixty feet, is two feet thick and weighs almost 200 tons. The second Moscow bell, which is the largest bell in the world that is actually in use, weighs 128 tons. There are several bells extant which weigh ten tons and over, of which Big Ben, the largest bell in England weighing between thirteen and fourteen tons, is one. Big Ben is unfortunately cracked.—London Globe.

Sardou's Quip.

"Victorien Sardou hated shams," said a New York theatrical manager. "If you tried to impose on him he would call you down.

"At the Ambigu during a rehearsal he said he doubted an actor's statement that he had given forty hours of study to his lines.

"'You doubt me?' said the actor hotly. 'I assure you, M. Sardou, I have never lied but twice in my life.'

"Sardou smiled dryly.

"'Then this makes thrice, eh?' said he."

Why He Was Popular.

"How do you know your husband is not a good poker player?"

"Because," answered young Mrs. Torkins, "no good poker player could be so popular as he is with other poker players."—Washington Star.

HOW THE PEOPLE LIKE THE SHOW AT THE COYLE

The new bill at the Coyle Theatre was greeted with a large audience at each performance last evening. Phiny F. Rutledge and Jeanne Pickering presented a rural comedy sketch entitled "My Boy Jim." It tells the story of an old New England lawyer and his great love for his wayward boy who lives in a great city, and displays the typical New England shrewdness in frustrating the plans of a scheming blackmailer to ruin his boy Jim, or force his father to pay a large sum of money. Comedy and pathos followed each other in rapid order during the 20 minutes the little playlet ran and at the conclusion was voted "one of the best yet."

Those two clever little girls, Jaynes and McGinley, were the bright particular stars on the bill and their rapid fire comedy was very much appreciated.

That chic little soubrette, Daisy Blondin, sang some new songs and her "gags" were voted immense.

Last but not least came The Williams, Three and considering their youthful years performed some marvelous feats of dexterity. The usual "candy" matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Admission 10 cents.

A Pleesant Meeting.

The Lady Maccabees meeting last evening was very largely attended and a large amount of business was disposed of. Lady Ellsworth, the past great commander of Pennsylvania, was present and gave some very interesting information concerning the order.

Mrs. Laura Eckel the lady commander of Charleroi Hive, has consented to act as deputy for Charleroi and Lucyville. All members pledged her their support in securing new members. A great effort will be made to secure a class of 100 members to be initiated at the Monessen Hive May 6, when the new ritualistic work will be put on by the supreme officers. New members are being initiated each meeting.

After the meeting last evening the entertainment committee served a very delicious lunch. There are bright prospects for having the Maccabees school of instruction held here in September.

All members are requested to meet at P. H. C. hall next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings for guard drill work. Lady Ellsworth was loud in her praise of Charleroi Hive.

For the present the socials will continue to be held at the homes of members. The committee will make it known later where the next one is to be held.

Good Luck.

Political Advertising.

Announcement.

In becoming a candidate I fully realize the issues which are before the people of the Nation and of this State. As an ardent admirer of Theodore Roosevelt, as a firm believer in the policies which he stood for, I shall earnestly advocate all measures which are for the welfare of the people.

Aldrichism and Cannonism represent the selfish interests which stand upon special privilege against the general welfare of the whole people.

The duties of a member of Congress are National, but in Pennsylvania the office has been made an asset of the State machine. The candidates for Congress through the State are as carefully selected as the candidates for the Legislature, the idea being that the patronage of a Congressman belongs absolutely to the Penrose-Oliver machine. A Congressman, so selected, being under such obligations to the machine, is not free to act for the public good.

The lavish use of money in politics has become deplorable. The present member of Congress, in the sworn statement filed by him following the primary election two years ago, admitted that he has expended about $14,000. It has been freely stated and not contradicted that the selfish interests, inside and outside of the district, contributed an additional sum of $50,000 and that at least 3,000 illegal votes were cast in one county in the district.

The voters of the district under the present primary system select their candidate without regard to county lines, but there can be no criticism of the candidates being from Beaver county, as this county, in the past 35 years, has had but two Congressmen serving for a total of eight years.

With the statement, in which I have endeavored to be sincere and candid, I submit the issue to the good citizenship of the district.

CHARLEROI MAN TO FILL PULPIT AT WAYNESBURG

Rev. I. N. Frye, former pastor of the First Christian church of Charleroi, left today for Waynesburg, where for several weeks during the absence of the pastor, Rev T. A. Bright in the Holy Land, he will have charge of the pulpit of the First Christian church. Rev. Bright left this week with a party of ministers and laymen under Rev. Moninger, formerly of Washington county, now of Cincinnatti, Ohio, for a visit to the Holy Land. In the party was Rev. Moninger's father-in law, John Cooper of Fallowfield township.

PERFECT FLIERS.

Eagles, Vultures and Similar Birds Are In This Class.

It is a fact that those ingenious and daring minds that devote themselves to the solution of the problem of aviation have given no small part of their preliminary study to considering the manner of flight of birds.

A strange result of this investigation is the conclusion, now generally indorsed, that, as a whole, the bird world is not to be regarded as perfect in its attainment of flight. For instance, it is contended by the best authorities that all birds obliged continually to flap their wings—and in this category may be mentioned sparrows, finches, thrushes, crows, etc.—are still in an imperfect stage of advancement.

In the next class, as being a degree advanced, are put such birds as pigeons, swallows, etc., which are able to dart ahead for a space after they have gained a good start by the vigorous flapping of their pinions.

In the third class the birds that may be said to be perfect fliers are the eagles, vultures, albatrosses and similar big birds possessing the ability to rise and fall and sway and soar in the air indefinitely without a perceptible movement of their wings. It is of course, known to every person of an observant turn that these big fowl are able to soar into the air gradually until at last they disappear from the eye of the watcher, it being almost impossible to detect any movement beyond a slight occasional motion of the tail.—New York Tribune.

A QUICK CHANGE.

From the Desire For Comfort to the Craze For Speed.

Mr. Newcar (about to start on his first trip in his recently purchased motor car, to his chauffeur)—Now, William, I want it thoroughly understood I will not have fast driving. Always keep well under the legal limit—not as close to it as you can. Ten miles an hour is fast enough for me. What I want is comfort, not excitement. Do you understand?

Three days later. "Er—er—William, I must be back to the house by 7 o'clock. This road seems very straight and wide. Don't you think you might go just a little faster without danger?"

Two days later. "William, this dust is very unpleasant. If you could pass that car ahead—it seems to be going rather slowly."

Next day. "Put on a little more speed, William. There's no use in being a crank. This road is too good to lose the chance."

A week later. "Open her up, William! There are no police within five miles, I'll bet, and if there are who cares? I'm out for fun! Let her zip! Let her zip! This is no steam roller! Let's have some speed!"—Life.

Monkey and Goat.

Monkeys are more renowned for mischief than for kindness, but even monkeys can be benevolent. M. Mouton records the doings of one in Guadeloupe that surely seemed to merit that reputation. This monkey had a friend in a goat that went daily to the pasture. Every night the monkey would pick out the burs and thorns, sometimes to the number of 2,000 or 3,000, from the goat's fleece, in order that the animal might lie down in peace. On coming in from the pasture the goat regularly went in search of his light barbered friend and submitted himself to the operation. Strange to say, the tricky instincts of the monkey reasserted themselves after the pricks were removed. He would tease the poor goat immeasurably, plucking his beard, poking fun in the eyes and pulling out his hairs. The goat bore it all with patience, perhaps regarding it as only a fair price to be paid for the removal of the thorns.—London Standard.

TRIFLES THAT COUNT.

To skim grease from soup in a hurry use square sheets of clean tissue paper on the surface of the soup. Lay them on one at a time, lift off lightly and every bit of fat comes off.

Icing that has not boiled long enough can be put back on the fire after it has been mixed in the white of egg provided an asbestus mat is used beneath.

Do not wear a winter suit that must do duty another season too late in the spring. It is more economical to buy a cheap lightweight suit rather than risk the dust and general shabbiness of wearing a good cloth one on hot days.

When the handles have pulled off the lids of pots or pans cut a spoon in half and fasten it to the lid with a screw and nut.

Glass shelves and towel rods in a bathroom save the time and temper of the cleaner. The chief objection to these fixings is the cost. If one watches marked down sales they can often be picked up at half price.

Cruel

"I'm developing quite a passion for motoring," said Miss Hostaley. "I wonder if it's harmful."

"Quite the contrary," replied Miss Cutting. "I should think it would be very becoming to you."

"How do you mean becoming?"

"Well, you know, dear, you can wear a mask while motoring."—St. Louis Republic.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUSIGNONT, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

JOS. G. GODISSART'S SHOE SALE
THE TALK OF THE TOWN

People have come from miles to buy their shoes Never before has such a slaughter in prices taken place. Our store has been crowded every day since the sale started. For 12 years Mr. Godissart has been doing business in Charleroi. His reputation as a reliable merchant is well known, always handled only "Standard Brand" of shoes, but circumstances have arisen on account of ill health, to dispose of his business and move West. That makes it imperative for him to annihilate every pair of shoes in his stock, and to that end we have made the greatest preparation ever undertaken in the history of any business house. 25,000 of these circulars and large newspaper advertisements will be thrown broadcast to inform the people for a radius of 50 miles, surpassing the efforts of previous sales and future sales for many years to come. It is a money-saving event for you.

A most sensational annihilation of former profits, a stupendious catastrophe, a supreme sacrifice of $15,000 worth of new Spring shoes for everybody, for less than the cost of raw material---impress upon your mind. Your Easter shoes for less than wholesale cost. Up to date goods.

AN AGITATED YOUNG MAN.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

Young Mr. Graham, the grandson of a grandmother who had brought him up in the way he should go, took a chair car from Philadelphia to New York on a certain date and found the chair on his right occupied by a very good looking and self composed young lady. When she dropped her handkerchief he ought to have picked it up and restored it, but he didn't. When she had trouble opening her hand bag he ought to have proffered his services, but he didn't. When her hatpin worked out and fell at his feet there was opportunity for him to prove himself a hero, but he wasn't up to it. His grandmother had warned him over and over again of the consequences of too much forwardness. He was agitated, but it went no further. Of course when the young lady realized what sort of young man he was she gave him the cold shoulder. She asked the porter to raise the window for her and to bring her a glass of water and if she would be sure to make connection with the Long Island train for Hempstead.

Young Mr. Graham felt his position keenly, but opportunity had fled. Reaching New York, he would have given worlds to warn the young lady not to take the Twenty-third street ferry by mistake for the Thirty-fourth but he had his chance and lost. It was while he was hanging back that he discovered her purse where it had dropped while she was picking up her traps. He started to rush after her to restore it, but in his agitation addressed a stately old dame who took him for a confidence man and threatened to have him arrested. When he came to overhaul the purse he found that it contained $1.80 and a trunk key. He reasoned it out that this was all the loser had with her and that when landing on the New York side she would find herself in an embarrassing situation. How was she to cross the Island? How pay her fare to Hempstead?

Here was more agitation, and it ended in the young man taking the next ferryboat. He did not find her weeping in the ferryhouse on the other side. He was also disappointed in not finding her in the East river house.

He crossed the river to the Long Island depot, but the object of his search was not there. It was a bad night Mr. Graham put in, and it was made longer and the worse for a sudden thought that came to him about midnight. The purse contained less than $2. The young lady's dress and jewelry showed that she belonged to a wealthy family. To restore such a lean purse to her would humiliate her; it certainly would. She would probably refuse to claim ownership and look upon him with withering scorn. After turning the matter over in his mind for three hours young Mr. Graham saw his way clear. He would add $5 to the contents of the purse.

Hempstead is not an overgrown town, and a persevering young man like Mr. Graham can find lots of things if he becomes chummy with the hackmen. It wasn't two hours before our hero had the name of the young girl and her abiding place. She was living with her widower of a father less than a mile away. It took him two hours to quell his agitation and make up his mind to drive to the house, but at last the thing was done. It seemed as if luck was with him. When the carriage stopped he beheld the selfsame young lady sitting on the veranda with a book in her hand.

"Beg pardon," he said, "but I was your fellow traveler from Philadelphia yesterday, and when you left the chair car I found this on the floor."

"But—but I don't understand," replied the young lady as she received the purse. "I didn't speak to you, and how did you know where I lived?"

"Why, while I was not listening—believe me, I was not—I heard you ask the porter about the train for Hempstead."

"Yes, I believe I did. I was dreadfully afraid I'd miss it. Won't you sit down? This was only my change purse, you know. I missed it, but it was of no account, except that it held the key to my trunk. However, I thank you, and"—

And she opened the purse to view the contents. There was her dollar-eighty, and a five dollar bill besides. She looked up in a puzzled way and said:

"This can't be mine."

"But I found it under your chair, miss."

"But how did this other money come here? I'm sure I hadn't it."

Mr. Graham turned red. His tongue refused to move. He saw the yawning pit and mopped his forehead, but it was too late. The situation had become full of tacks when the young lady's father appeared. He was a stern faced old colonel.

"Sir, explain your game!" he said after a few words of explanation from the daughter.

He asked an impossibility. How could such a thing be explained? Father and daughter looked at the blushing, agitated young man for a moment, and then the father took him by the arm and led him down to the gate and put the purse into his hand and said:

"Come with the green goods next time."

And when he had returned to the veranda and they had watched young Mr. Graham down the road for forty rods the daughter observed:

"Papa, I wish you hadn't. It would have been such a novelty to get acquainted with an agitated young man."

GIFT TO MRS. ROOSEVELT.

Ladies of Official Circle Present Diamond Necklace to Her.

Several days before Mrs. Roosevelt left the White House a number of her most intimate friends presented her with a beautiful diamond necklace which was purchased with funds raised by subscription among the ladies who have been most closely associated with her during her residence in the White House.

The collection of the fund, the purchase of the gift and its presentation have all been guarded carefully by those interested in making the present, and it was their intention to have prevented any publicity in connection with it. But it has become known that Miss May Williams, daughter of the late C. A. Williams of New London, Conn., had acted as the treasurer of the fund and that Mrs. L. Z. Leiter had headed the list of subscribers. It is understood that the amount raised for the purchase of the necklace was several thousand dollars.

The first Christmas after Mr. Roosevelt became president the ladies of the cabinet, most of whom had held a similar relation toward Mrs. McKinley, carried out a custom of that time by making a combined Christmas present to the president's wife. After considerable consultation a gold purse was decided upon. Mrs. John Hay was the custodian of the fund on that occasion, and Mrs. Root, Mrs. Gage and Mrs. Hitchcock were among the contributors.

When Mrs. Cleveland was leaving the White House for the second time the ladies of the cabinet presented her with a superb ring in diamonds and sapphires, which has been one of her most prized possessions ever since. Only the ladies of the cabinet were represented in this gift, which was made so quietly that no one but Mrs. Cleveland and her immediate circle knew anything about it.

Bishop Butler's Generosity.

So many examples of episcopal cupidity have been cited of late that the average reader may be excused for believing the bishop of a century or so ago to have been an incarnation of greed. But against the Luxmores, the Watsons and the Porteouses may be set the saintly Butler, whose "Analogy" is still used as a text book for clerical examinations. Butler kept open house at Durham, where he dispensed hospitality with a lavish hand. On one occasion a man called at the palace soliciting a subscription for some charitable object. "How much money is there in the house?" asked Butler of his secretary. The secretary after investigation replied that there was £500. "Give it to him, then," replied the philosopher bishop, "for it is a shame that a bishop should have so much."—London Chronicle.

Hindsight.

"I made enough money in Wall street last week to buy a house and lot."

"Did you buy it?"

"Well, no; but I wish I had."—New York Herald.

Why She Did It.

"Why is it," they asked, "that you let your husband have his own way in everything?"

"Because," she replied, "I like to have some one to blame when things go wrong."

The Alvin—Pittsburg.

An unusually strong attraction will hold the boards at the Alvin Theatre during the week of March 28, when the Jefferson de Angelis compay in "The Beauty Spot" comes to that theatre.

"The Beauty Spot" has enjoyed the most successful seaon of any musical play on the road this year. Its book and lyrics by Joseph W. Herbert are said to be the best this well known writer has turned out in many seasons. The music of Reginald De Koven is said to be the best that this master of melody has composed since "Robin Hood;" each number is a musical gem of the whistling tuneful variety. Without a doubt Pittsburg will be whistling and singing such catchy numbers from the play as "Oeole Days," "The Hammock Love Song," "A Prince of Boreno," "She Sells Sea Shells," "He Loved Her Tender," before the conclusion of the play's engagement in this city.

The production will be identically the same as it was during its successful run of over six month at the Herald Square Theatre with the same capable company. This include such well known players as George J. MacFalane, Fank Deane, Viola Gillette, Isabel D'Armond, Jacques Kruger, Alf Deball, Jean Newcomber, Catherine Bowen and Frances Burns.

A feature of the company is the famous beauties in the supporting chorus; each and every one is a prize winner and their appealing love lines has caused a sensation in every city they have played.

There are other elements of success in "The Beauty Spot" and one of them worthy of mention is the dancing; especially true is this of the Boulevard Glide, a Parisian importation, which danced by Mr. de Angelis and Miss Burns proves to be the most seductive since the Merry Widow waltz. Two popular priced matinees will be given during the engagement.

Dancing School.

Prof. Oatman's Dancing School every Tuesday night in the Bank of Charleroi Hall. Private lessons by appointment. Beginner's class 8 to 9, social dance 9 to 12, Maxwell Orchestra. New dances will be taught.

He then dispatched [illegible] Indian runners in different directions with orders not to return without the murderer. After a week's time they returned bearing the malefactor bound in their midst. A council of old men was called and the case was examined. The guilt of the mozo was proved, as he still had with him the strange pieces of gold.

Then the old chief gave the sentence. It was speedily performed. They led the trembling murderer to the center of the little plaza. There four green stakes were driven in the ground. The murderer was stripped naked and stretched by the wrists and feet in the air among the four stakes, to which he was lashed. Then the Indians made a great heap of unslaked lime under the wretched man's body, and when the heap touched his breast and sides they poured water over it until the scalding steam of the burning lime had cooked all the flesh from the bones. Then they took the bones and threw them into a hole on the mountain side.

And so was the stain of the murdered man's blood covered and vengeance was wrought by the Indians in behalf of "the white stranger who was good and loved flowers."—Mexican Exchange.

WORTHY OF CONFIDENCE

An Offer Backed by One of Our Most Reputable Concerns.

We pay for all the medicine used during the trial, if our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obligated to us in any way whatever, if you accept our offer. That's a mighty broad statement, but we mean every word of it. Could anything be more fair for you?

A most scientific, common-sense treatment is Rexall Orderlies, which are eaten like candy. Their active principle is a recent scientific discovery that is odorless, colorless and tasteless; very pronounced, gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. This ingredient does not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping or any inconvenience whatever. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons.

If you suffer from chronic or habitual constipation, or the associate or dependent chronic ailments, we urge you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Remember you can get them in Charleroi only at our store. 12 tablets 10 cents; 36 tablets 22 cents.—The Rexall Store. John W. Carroll.

COMPLEXION ILLS

These are the days when a women must give regular, thoughtful care to her complexion, if she would retain its elusive bloom of youth. As every woman knows, this can only be done by intelligent use of a high grade face cream, used in connection with massage of a helpful sort. Doubtless more complexions have been injured by harmful, unscientific massage, than in in any other way. Lasting and satisfactory efforts can best be secured by the use of Crown Cream and a Harlan Beauty Cup. Crown Cream alone is so helpful, cleansing and nourishing to the skin that many women use it without massage.

But as the Harlan Beauty Cup makes perfect massage automatic, these two toilet essentials should always be used together.

Crown Cream has a wonderful effect upon poor and lifeless complexions and seems to clear from the face the marks of time in a manner almost miraculous. Regularly used, all skin blotches and blemishes quickly disappear, and the complexion is given the tone it needs to withstand the ravages of wind and sun.

Ask your dealer if he has these goods, and accept no substitute for them. If he is not supplied, they will be sent prepaid to your address from the Harlan Mfg Co., Toledo, Ohio, upon receipt of price, which is 50c a jar for the Crown Cream, and 50c the Beauty Cup. Hennings' Drug Store, corner Fifth and McKean, Charleroi, Pa.

We Sell The Marvel Self-Working Washer

The wonderful invention that enables you or your housemaid to attend to the regular household duties while the clothes are being washed—washed sweet and clean.

Attach the hose to the faucet and turn on the water—that is all you have to do. Washes a tubful of clothes in from 7 to 15 minutes without rubbing or tearing. The gentle, rotary motion forces the water through the fabric, takes out all the dirt. Washes heavy blankets or dainty lingerie equally well.

Buy a Marvel. Save yourself from the work and worry of wash-day. Save your clothes from the wear and tear of the wash-board. Save your laundry bill. This means actual dollars to you, and the Marvel costs only $15. It pays for itself over and over in one year. It is positively guaranteed.

DOING THE CZAR.

A Display of Quick Wit by the Comedian Martineff.

During an interview which Martineff, the comedian and mimic, had succeeded in obtaining with Prince Volkhonsky, high steward, the emperor walked into the room unexpectedly, yet with a design, as was soon made evident.

Telling the actor that he had heard of his talents and should like to see a specimen of them, he bade him mimic the old minister. The feat was performed with so much gusto that the emperor laughed immoderately and then, to the great horror of the poor actor, desired to have himself "taken off."

"'Tis physically impossible," pleaded Martineff.

"Nonsense," said Nicholas. "I insist on its being done."

Finding himself on the horns of a dilemma, the mimic took heart of grace and, with a promptitude and presence of mind that probably saved him, buttoned his coat over his breast, expanded his chest, threw up his head and, assuming the imperial part to the best of his power, strode across the room and back; then, standing opposite the minister, he cried in the exact tone and manner of the czar:

"Volkhonsky, pay M. Martineff 1,000 silver rubles!"

The emperor for a moment was disconcerted; but, recovering himself with a smile, he ordered the money to be paid.

Poultry Notes.

Duck eggs lose their fertility very rapidly, hence should be comparatively fresh when placed in an incubator or under a hen.

Cleanliness in the poultry yard is worth a whole medicine chest full of remedies in preventing disease.

Whenever young chickens are taken from the nest while the hatch is in progress care must be taken that they do not become chilled, night or day.

Gapes In Fowl.

Gapes is the name of a condition caused by worms in the windpipe of the fowl. It may be treated successfully with a feather stripped to a small tuft at the end. Dip it in pure zenoleum, and as the chicken breathes insert it in the windpipe and turn it a few times. This loosens the worms, and they are coughed up. Some use turpentine in the same way and often with good results.

A Handy Pole.

Every farmer should have a good ten foot pole. Pine or basswood dressed down to an inch and a quarter square makes a good one. Cut it exactly ten feet long; then lay it off with a scratch awl into lengths of one foot each. The marks may afterward be blackened with ink or pencil. Half foot lengths are also handy. Keep the pole where it will be straight and dry.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

The number of British horses bred is falling off at the rate of nearly 4,000 a year.

Not more than sixty-four persons can be registered as owners of any one British ship.

Hampstead Heath is the highest part of London. It rises 424 feet, or eighty-four feet above the cross of St. Paul's.

In the year 787 there were three archbishops in England—Canterbury, York and Lichfield. The latter was suppressed within half a century.

As long ago as 1710 handkerchiefs were made on which were printed the map of England, with distances of the principal towns from London.

The Fulham borough council, London, has agreed to allow the use of its public baths for baptisms by immersion. The scale of charges is furnished on application.

A complete skeleton of an okapi, the skull of which is a most remarkable specimen, has been sent to the British museum by Major Powell Cotton. In addition there is a beautifully marked and perfect skin.

A Curious Receipt.

Hargrave's publisher discovered a very curious document some time ago as he was looking through a bundle of papers that date back to the eighteenth century. The document is a receipt—probably the only one of its kind in existence—which was given to a Hanoverian captain by a canon of Duisburg during the Seven Years' war.

"I, the undersigned," it reads, "hereby acknowledge that I have received fifty blows of a stick, which were inflicted upon me by a lieutenant of Captain B.'s regiment as a punishment for the stupid and frivolous calumnies which I have uttered in regard to the regiment of chasseurs. For my imprudent words I now admit that I am profoundly sorry. I received my punishment lying on a heap of straw and held by two men, and I bear testimony to the fact that the officer struck me as vigorously as he could with a stick that was as thick as my finger.

"In proper form and with due gratitude I sign this receipt and avow that all therein is true."

The Forecast.

Husband—Well, what did the phrenologist say about Willie's head? Wife—Nothing. He simply sighed and handed me my money back. Husband—Just as I expected. He's going to be a poet.—Exchange.

A man that hath not virtue in himself ever envieth virtue in others.—Bacon.

Sometimes.

"There's nothing slow about him, is there?"

"Oh, I don't know! Did he ever owe you any money?"—Cleveland Leader

Mean Male Subterfuge.

Lady Cabby—Well, and my tip?

Fare—What! Offer money to a woman! What would my wife say?—Paris Figaro.

The man with bulgeous whiskers is unendurable, according to Ella Wheeler Wilcox. But, at any rate, he is appreciated at home, where the baby is looking for something to play with.

A newly discovered portrait of Shakespeare shows that he had a receding chin and a slanted brow. We suspect that the Baconians have not told all they know about this matter.

H. H. Rogers would doubtless be pleased to see Tom Lawson's contribution to current literature develop more and more heart interest and less financial theorizing.

The illustrations that help out Carl Schurz's reminiscences of wartimes remind us that some very ample hoopskirts were worn in those days.

The number of congressmen who are prepared to lecture on what they saw in the Panama canal zone looks like a glut in the market.

Why He Was Unpopular.

When first made bishop of Stepney Dr. Winnington Ingram was anything but popular and indeed had occasionally to seek police protection. Greatly worried, the bishop tried to trace the cause and found one lady who was able to enlighten him.

"It's your white shirt, sir," she said. "We don't want no white shirted gentry here. Try a gray shirt and a dickey, like our chaps wear on Sunday."

The advice tendered was promptly acted upon, and thus the present bishop of London made the first advance toward close friendship with his people.—London Graphic.

Small Fruit Cultivation.

Surplus suckers in blackberry or red raspberry patches should be treated just like weeds. Don't let the rows get too wide nor too thick. But do not hoe up all the new shoots coming up in the row. Remember that your berry crop next year will be borne on canes which are grown this season.

The Strawberry Bed.

Pick off all the blossoms from newly set strawberry beds; thus you send all the plants' strength back into themselves—into growth. It is unwise to let plants fruit the first season.

Art In Selling Hats.

"It makes you look small," says the saleslady to the big woman who is trying on the hat. Sold.

"It makes you look plump," she says to the slender woman. Sold.

"It makes you look young," she says to the obviously middle aged woman. Sold.

"It makes you look tall," she says to the short woman. Sold.

"It makes you look short," she says to the tall woman. Sold.

"It brightens your face," she says to the dark woman. Sold.

"It brings out your color," she says to the pale woman. Sold.

And all the hats were alike.—Judge.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

The first knives were used in England in 1559.

In London there are 70,000 municipal employees. In England generally there are close upon 2,000,000.

Armorial bearings yielded a revenue of £68,479 last year, and £148,690 was paid in taxes on male servants.

Charged in a London court with embezzling his employer's money, a young man pleaded that he was driven to it by the expenses of courting three girls at one time.

The London county council has in its various parks fifty swans, ninety-six geese (eight varieties), 654 ducks (nineteen varieties) and seven storks. Aviaries at nine places are stocked with small birds of twenty-seven varieties.

Ground has been broken for the Franco-British exposition that is to be held in London in 1908. A tract of land containing 140 acres has been secured within seventeen and a half minutes of Charing Cross, on which the buildings are to be erected.

Lived Up to His Belief.

Hobo—No, madam, I am neither a Socialist nor an anarchist. I am a passive [illegible]. Housewife—And what in the name of common sense is that? Hobo—I believe in being helped all I can.—Boston Transcript.

Cautious.

Prospective Best Man—Got the marriage license yet? Prospective Bridegroom—No; I'm not going to get that until the last thing. She may go back on me.—Chicago Tribune.

The Modern Husband.

Mrs. Knicker—We are to have a thousand foot skyscraper. Mrs. Bocker—I suppose that means that Henry will be detained at the office 500 feet later.—Harper's Weekly.

Jaded.

The Lady—Little boy, don't you know smoking will shorten your life? The Kid—Shucks! Wot do I care? I've seen everyt'ing dere is.—Boston Traveler.

What maintains one vice would bring up two children.—Benjamin Franklin.

When the Dime Museum Burned.

They got the fat woman out

The Store That is Famous for its Union Made Clothing

We are Not the Only Clothiers and do not have all the clothing in town, but we have a line of Union Made clothing that is worthy the notice of any wearer of good clothes.

A Man's Suit speaks for him as plainly as his card. His card simply tells his name, while his suit proclaims his personality to every one he meets. Everybody understands the clothes language.

Our Suits Always Speak favorably of the wearer. No matter how carefully you may dress on other days of the year, Easter Sunday always calls for the best.

WOMEN WANT TO FLY.

But Only One So Far Has Invented Her Own Machine.

Interest in the science of flying has not been confined to men. Women also have taken to aerial navigation with enthusiasm. But, as the aeroplane still remains a thing of questionable safety, few of them have been allowed to take the risk. It is interesting to know, says Vogue, that it was a woman, Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, who conceived the idea of forming the Aerial Experiment association, of which her husband was the most conspicuous member. Mrs. Bell suggested the formation of the association and made the proposition to furnish the funds with which to carry on the experiments.

More than fifty women in this country have made ascents in spherical balloons, but Mrs. C. J. S. Miller of Franklin, Pa., holds the record of being the only woman to go up in a dirigible. Wilbur Wright has taken up six women, including his sister Miss Katherine Wright, Mrs. Leon Bollee, Mrs. Lazar Weiler, Countess Lambert and Mrs. Hart Berg. While staying in Paris Miss Anne Morgan witnessed a flight and immediately asked Mr. Wright to take her up, but at that time it was not considered safe to do so. Miss Morgan is deeply interested in the subject, and it is said that she wishes to form an aeronautic club.

Miss E. L. Todd of New York is the first woman to invent an aeroplane. She now has her machine ready for the installment of the motor and expects to drive it herself. Among other prominent American women who have made ascensions in spherical balloons are Mrs. Cortlandt Field Bishop, Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar of New York, Mrs. C. A. Cody of Chicago and Miss Natalie Forbes, daughter of A. Holland Forbes. Mrs. Cody, who is an enthusiastic navigator of the air, declares that she felt less alarm in making her first balloon ascent than she did when taking her first automobile ride.

HANDY COOKING UTENSIL.

A Fuel Saving Device That Cooks Three Vegetables at Once.

Time, money and space are saved by the cooking utensils designed by an Ohio man, and all housekeepers will readily understand the merits of this article by merely glancing at the illustration. This utensil consists of a stewpan with three separate compartments in which three vegetables may be cooked at once over one lid of a stove or one flame of a gas range. The pan comprises a skeleton frame of bottom and top hoops and side bars and three receptacles, one taking up half of the capacity and the others being quarters. Each of these receptacles has a clip which fits over the rim of the frame and by which it may be lifted into place or out again. As each of these vessels is separate it is not necessary that the vegetables to be cooked in them require the same length of time. As one is done the partition can be lifted out. Such a utensil when used on a gas stove uses up only one-third as much gas as under ordinary conditions.

Gloom Spread by Book Agents.

"When I was a small boy living in Huntsville, Mo., an early day book agent came up from St. Louis by steamboat and flooded our country with a harrowing volume entitled 'Ages—The Key to Her Coffin.' Everybody bought the thing and everybody wept over it," remarked a Macon resident. "Its influence descended upon the community like a nightmare. It reeked with shrouds, funerals and graveyards. For a long while 'The Key to Agnes' Coffin' was the sole diversion of certain portions of the populace. They seemed to take a pure and chastened joy in the awful weight of woe that oozed out from between its lids, and it made them feel better. There were not many books in the country in those days, and the sagacious agent had sized the community's taste up about right. The book was supposed to be very consoling to the distressed in that it told of worse troubles than their own."—Macon Republican.

Successful Ugly Women.

Successful women were not always of irreproachable beauty or modeling. Thus the Princess d'Evoli of Louis XV.'s time was one eyed; the slit of Montespan's mouth reached her ears; Mme. de Maintenon was thin, meager, yellowish; La Valliere lame, Gabrielle d'Estrees one armed, Anne Boleyn six fingered.—Hindustan Review.

He Evidently Had One.

"What is a pessimist, pa?"

"A man who has a note to meet."—New York Press.

The Grand—Pittsburg.

The Grand in Pittsburg offers for the week beginning Monday, March 28, a bill of vaudeville entirely commensurate with the high standard which Manager Harry Davis has so consistently maintained throughout this and previous seasons. One of the prime attractions will be the first appearance in Pittsburg of Johnny Hyams and Leila McIntyre in their new sketch "The Quakeress." Funny Mr. Hyams and clever Miss McIntyre have been here quite frequently, but never in this act, which is the hit pre eminent of their careers. Leila McIntrye has no peer on the stage as child impersonator. Her songs and dances reveal the soubrette-comedienne in her happiest forte and her pretty little stories of child life of infantile fancy and whimsicality are about the most delicious piece of characterization that vaudeville has. Mr. Hyams, on the other hand, is boardly eccentric and at times even grotesque.

Another attraction of superlative interest will be the presentation of a character comedy in one act entitled "Uncle Lem's Dilemma." The play is from the pen of Edward Locke of Pittsburg. The interpreting company is that of Henry Horton and his associate players, including Miss Louise Hardenburgh. "Uncle Lem's Dilemma" is said to be an original rustic comedy. The story creates the trouble of "Uncle Lem" in telling his daughter that he is about to marry again and his efforts to induce her to marry the boy she loves instead of staying with father until he dies. By playing upon the feminine predilection for contradictions he finally accomplishes both his purposes, the while keeping his audience in infectious laughter.

Ablert Hole, England's famous boy soprano, will give a repertoire of songs, classical and otherwise. His voice has a wonderul compass, is of pure, lyric soprano quality and a register that permits him to sing up and down the scale at random.

Grand patrons will be glad to see Mr. Bert Levy again, for of all entertainers of the artistic profession this gentlemanly cartoonist is the most popular. By means of his special pictoral apparatus, he entertains his audience in a unique manner. He drawns a picture on a small piece of lamp blacked glass, showing the picture in its progress of development.

Something absolutely new in the trained animal line is promised by Duncan's Royal Scotch Collies. They are a dozen of the brightest, classiest and most winning canines that ever came from the land of heather and are put through their various stunts by Professor Duncan and his assistant.

Harry Linton and Anita Lawrence will be seen in a new musical trifle entitled "The Piano Store." Their cleverness is conceded and it is said the act of this season is far superior to anything they have done in the east.

The Nixon---Pittsburg.

Fritzi Scheff's new comic opera, "The Prima Donna" in which she comes to the Nixon next week, direct from a long run at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, requires a cast of very accomplished actors, as well as singers, and several of the actors are not called upon to sing a note, this beng left to those especially trained for it. It assures that the play must have dramatic worth, as well as musical value. Henry Blossom's witty yet dramatic book has, however, only spurred Victor Herbert on to more ambitious efforts with his music, and the great composer is said to have written at his very best for Fritzi Scheff. She has a waltz song that is marvelously tuneful and dainty, and an aria that enables her to show that she is easily the greatest soprano who has ever sung in light opera in this country.

The story of "The Prima Donna" concerns Mlle Atheaes, the reigning prima donna of Paris, who becomes stalled by an automobile accident at a cafe chantant, in a small back town. She goes into the Cafe Chantant while her chauffeur is endeavoring to repair the machine, and there she hears old Bob Gundlefinger, the musical director of the place, scolding a sick singer. The sympathetic Athenes, (Fritzi Scheff) helps the struggling singer, and in a moment of daring, says she will sing herself. She sings a song written by an officer at the neigboring barracks, and makes a great hit with it. This is the waltz theme referred to above. The prima dona and the officer fall in love with each other and another officer intervens and insults her grossly. The opera is mounted in the usual lavish Dillingham manner and the costuming is rich and vari-colored. There will be a matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

The Palace---Charleroi

"The Girl Burglar," somewhat on the order of Mrs. Fisk's famous play, "Leah Kleschna," was most graphically shown in life motion pictures at the Palace Theatre this week. The girl burglar and her brother plan to rob a minister, a widower. The girl engages as a governess to the little son of the minister, but here romance creeps in, and the girl and the minister fall in love with each other. Realizing her unworthiness the girl flees, and resumes her old life. Caught in a hotel burglary by the minister whom she loves, the girl is saved from prison. She renoucnes her evil life and three years later, as a trained nurse, again meets the minister and all ends well. The open air concerts of the Palace are once more the big drawing cards they were all through last season. These concerts are given nightly and large crowds assemble on the street to listen to the excellent music.

New Duquesne---Pittsburg.

The Harry Davis stock company, at the New Duquesne theatre, which is this week giving such a sumptous production of "The Sign of the Cross," will next week be seen in that delighful and highly hilarious farce comedy by the late Charles H. Hoyt, "A Temperance Town," the same being a most entertaining satire on local option. It teems with human interest. The characters are just like persons you meet in everyday life and there is no end of fun. Miss Kemble, Mr. Hansel, Mark Kent, Frederic Summer, Miss Howe, Miss Dills, Mr. Greenstreet, Miss Carroll, Mr. Day, Mrs. Campbell and other members of the excellent organization Mr. Davis has given to Greater Pittsburg will have full and wide scope to again demonstrate his or her versatility. Next Monday afternoon handsome Rosser photos of Mr. Sydney Greenstreet will be presentted to each and every lady attending the performance. The same attractive scale of price will prevail, and it is suggested that those who wish to witness the performances take precaution to order their seats in advance.

Good Friday.

Today, Good Frday, is being observed with solemn import by all the Catholic and many of the Protestant churches throughout Christendom. Commemorating as it does the anniverary of Christ's death, it is designated as a day of sorrow and mourning, and the ritualistic ceremonies observed today have special reference to the circumstances of Christ's death and entombment. It is the saddest anniversary in the whole calendar of church celebrations.

The special significance to be derived from the observance of Good Friday is the spirit of redemption accomplished by the tragic event of this anniversary. In early times this was manifested by a spirit of tolerance and forgiveness somewhat foreign to the times. In church affairs it was customary to release public penitents from their probation and the excommunicated from their ban. In civil life the courts were lenient on this day. Prisoners were liberated, exiles recalled and slaves were manumitted in remembrance of Christ's death. While this literal application of the significance of the anniversary is no longer practiced, the spirit of humanity, forgiveness and Christian charity was never stronger, and the anniversary of the death of the Son of Man is a most fitting time to recall these attributes into active being.

Concerning Mr. Kennedy.

T. L. Kennedy of New Brighton has announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district to oppose Congressman J. K. Tener, who is also a candidate for re-election. The Washington Record, which has looked up Mr. Kennedy's political career, has this to say of his candidacy and the political situation in the district:

"The announcement that T. L. Kennedy of New Brighton will be a candidate for Congress in this district will meet with little response. A servile vassal of the old Quay regime, he became the slated candidate for Assembly in Beaver county. He voted for Quay for Senator thereby exhibiting that great independence in politics which he never possessed. The next year, in 1902, he again became a candidate and had the backing of the old Quay machine, and despite the usual custom of two terms he demonstrated his strong popularity by being defeated. While it is true that he was out the next time, yet the fact that under such circumstances, he was defeated, demonstrates he is not Congressional timber.

"There have at many times in the past, been very potent arguments promulgated in favor of keeping a Congressman in your own county. These are just as feasible now as they were then. We heard many arguments two years ago as to why a representative should be retained in Congress, and that the district would be handicapped by a newly-elected man. This in general is true, but when as was the fact two years ago when a candidate of mediocre ability and years of experience was pitted against a candidate of marked ability but without experience, it is not surprising that the latter won. We were told that it would take several terms for John K. Tener, when elected, to get on the Rivers and Harbors committee. It did take his predecessor, it would take Mr. Kennedy, but it did not take Mr. Tener.

"It has been an uphill undertaking to get a candidate to run against Mr. Tener. The logical candidate was Robert K. Aiken of New Castle, but he having looked over the ground passed it up. J. D. Davidson was spoken of but he absolutely declined to run Judge J. Sharpe Wilson was mentioned but he said, "Not for Joseph, if he knows it."

"T. L. Kennedy seems to be Hobson's choice of those opposed to Tener, and a very poor one at that. His announcement is an insult to the voters of the district when he says that our county cast 3,000 illegal votes under the present primary system; such is an absolute impossibility. Mr. Kennedy will be called on to substantiate this slander during the campaign. He will be called on to explain why he cast the deciding vote in favor of Quay in 1901. He will find himself and his Congressional aspirants buried beneath an avalanche of votes on the evening of June 4."

Mr. Tener, who is Charleroi's favorite son, as a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee is making a reputation for himself in Congress during his first term. He is no less popular in his home town and county, as well as throughout the entire district, than when he received such an overwhelming vote at the primary which gave him the nomination in 1908.

Home Trade.

A glance at the advertising columns of the Mail today reveals the fact that not only are Charleroi merchants up-to-date and alive to the times in the stocks they carry, but that there is a sufficient variety in all classes of merchandise carried here to satisfy every rational requirement. No persons need to go out of town to get what they want to eat, wear or to furnish and adorn their homes. Everything in that line can be purchased right here in Charleroi.

In presenting and exploiting their wares to the public, as they do today, the Charleroi business people, in addition to serving their personal interests, are promoting the importance of Charleroi as a whole. Today's issue of the Mail, which circulates widely up and down the river, shows that there are not only a few live business places in Charleroi but a whole lot of them. This conveys a most pleasing impression to the out-of-town reader, who instinctively imbibes the idea that Charleroi is a good town to go to. In addition to getting what one wants, there are other things to see and learn something about in the line of future purchases. Charleroi will get a big boost in prestige by the business announcements in this issue of the Mail.

ETIQUETTE.

An Old Fashioned Man Frees His Mind About Its Absurdities

"Whether to eat fish with a fish knife and fork or a fork and a bit of bread, whether to serve champagne in a tumbler or a goblet—it is quite absurd to regard one of these courses as right and the other as wrong and to admire or despise a person accordingly. The average rule of etiquette has nothing to do with courtesy, with good breeding, and it is no criterion of courtesy or of good breeding."

"Smile at me, nephews and nieces," he resumed, "because I tuck my napkin under my chin. Yet why should I spoil my black broadcloth coat with turkey stains or smears of cranberry sauce? It is a rule of etiquette, you say, that the napkin may only be placed across the knee—an absurd ephemeral rule!

"It was a rule of etiquette in France during the reign of 'Le Roi Soleil' the great Louis XIV., that when the king visited a sick subject the king, too, must lie down in a bed, on the ground that it would never do for a subject to maintain a more informal attitude than his master during the audience. Louis XIV., visiting the Marshal de Villars after Malplaquet, lay in a bed beside the suffering soldier in that way.

"Behold the absurdities of etiquette and let me do with my napkin what I please."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THE FOREIGN LEGION.

A Peculiar Body of Fighters In the French Army.

The French foreign legion is a heterogeneous organization. It is composed of disappointed men of every country—political refugees, military fugitives. In fact, all varieties of the world's restless citizens go to make up this wonderful mongrel fighting machine. "No questions asked" might well be the regimental motto. Each man signing his bond of service sells his soul for five years at the wage of 1 sou (about 1 cent) per day.

The officers are French, but the men hail from everywhere and nowhere. Under various names the French legion has existed since the eighteenth century and was finally constituted as at present in 1830. It consists of twelve battalions divided into two regiments, mustering a total strength of 12,000 men. Eight thousand are kept in the far east, the remainder serving in northern Africa. In the early days the regiments were divided into "national sections" men from the same country being kept together.

This resulted however, in continual racial disputes, and each company consequently was given a cosmopolitan composition. Since its formation the officials have guarded closely against desertions, and as the legion only serves in French colonial territory where the centers are remote and transportation is difficult a successful desertion is a rare feat.—Chicago News.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Little Helen Bentler of Los Angeles, aged five, dearly loves her grandma, who has been living with her and her parents. Recently grandma went to Seattle for a visit and caught cold on the way. When she arrived there, she wrote back to Helen's parents that she had reached Seattle, but had had a hard fight with the grip. Helen wanted to hear what grandma had to say, and the letter was read to her. Soon afterward she saw one of her neighbors and exclaimed: "Oh, Mrs Smith, we've had a letter from grandma. She got to Seattle all right, but she had a terrible fight with her valise!"—Los Angeles Times.

Disraeli's Jokes.

Disraeli dearly loved a joke at the expense of others. An author who had sent his latest effort in fiction to him received the following complimentary acknowledgment:

"I thank you for the book you sent me and will lose no time in reading it."

"I wonder what makes my eyes so weak," a fierce Radical once said to Disraeli.

"It is because they are in a weak place," was the reply.

An incident in the life of the late Lord Rosslyn shows how acute was the sense of humor in Disraeli. "What can we do with Rossyln?" he asked of a colleague.

"Make him master of the buckhounds, as his father was," suggested the latter.

"No," replied the premier: "he swears far too much for that. We will make him high commissioner to the Church of Scotland." And such he was made.—Chambers' Journal.

How About a Good Back View?

"Auntie Liz had a hard time having her picture taken today," said her nephew, who had just opened a photographic studio and had very courteously asked his aunt to come and pose for a new picture.

"Why, what was the trouble?" asked his brother.

"Well, you see, when I told her to look pleasant she didn't look natural, and when I told her to look natural she didn't look pleasant."—Ladies' Home Journal.

ANCIENT BELLS.

They Were Often Quadrangular and Made of Thin Iron Plates.

There are several old bells in Scotland, Ireland and Wales. The oldest are often quadrangular, being made of thin iron plates which have been hammered and riveted together. At the monastery of St Gall in Switzerland the four sided bell of the Irish missionary St Gall, who lived in the seventh century, is still preserved, but more ancient still is the bell of St Patrick in Belfast, which is ornamented with gold and gems and silver filigree work.

The curfew bell is that about which most has been written and said. It has been thought that it was only used in England, but it was quite common on the continent in the middle ages.

The ringing of bells by rope is still very popular in England, especially in the country where almost every hamlet, however small, has its church with its peal of bells which are often remarkably well rung. The first real peal of bells in England was sent by Pope Calixtus III. to King's college, Cambridge, and was for 300 years the largest peal in England. About the beginning of the year 1500 sets of eight bells were hung in a few of the large churches.

In the middle of the seventeenth century a man named White wrote a famous work on bells in which he introduced the system of numbering them 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., on slips of paper in different orders, according to the changes intended to be rung. It is calculated that to ring all the changes upon twenty-four bells at two strokes a second would take 117 billion years.

One of the most famous bells in the world is the first great bell of Moscow, which now stands in the middle of a square in that city and is used as a chapel. This bell was cast in 1733 but was in the earth for over a hundred years, being raised in 1836 by the Emperor Nicholas. It is nearly twenty feet high, has a circumference of sixty feet, is two feet thick and weighs almost 200 tons. The second Moscow bell, which is the largest bell in the world that is actually in use, weighs 128 tons. There are several bells extant which weigh ten tons and over, of which Big Ben, the largest bell in England, weighing between thirteen and fourteen tons, is one. Big Ben is unfortunately cracked.—London Globe.

Sardou's Quip.

"Victorien Sardou hated shams," said a New York theatrical manager. "If you tried to impose on him he would call you down.

"At the Ambigu during a rehearsal he said he doubted an actor's statement that he had given forty hours of study to his lines.

"'You doubt me?' said the actor hotly. 'I assure you, M. Sardou, I have never lied but twice in my life.'

"Sardou smiled dryly.

"'Then this makes thrice, eh?' said he."

The new bill at the Coyle Theatre was greeted with a large audience at each performance last evening. Phiny F. Rutledge and Jeanne Pickering presented a rural comedy sketch entitled "My Boy Jim." It tells the story of an old New England lawyer and his great love for his wayward boy who lives in a great city, and displays the typical New England shrewdness in frustrating the plans of a scheming blackmailer to ruin his boy Jim, or force his father to pay a large sum of money. Comedy and pathos followed each other in rapid order during the 20 minutes the little playlet ran and at the conclusion was voted "one of the best yet."

Those two clever little girls, Jaynes and McGinley, were the bright particular stars on the bill and their rapid fire comedy was very much appreciated.

That chic little soubrette, Daisy Blondin, sang some new songs and her "gags" were voted immense.

Last but not least came The Williams, Three and considering their youthful years performed some marvelous feats of dexterity. The usual "candy" matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Admission 10 cents.

A Pleesant Meeting.

The Lady Maccabees meeting last evening was very largely attended and a large amount of business was disposed of. Lady Ellsworth, the past great commander of Pennsylvania, was present and gave some very interesting information concerning the order.

Mrs Laura Eckel the lady commander of Charleroi Hive, has consented to act as deputy for Charleroi and Lucyville. All members pledged her their support in securing new members. A great effort will be made to secure a class of 100 members to be initiated at the Monessen Hive May 6, when the new ritualistic work will be put on by the supreme officers. New members are being initiated each meeting.

After the meeting last evening the entertainment committee served a very delicious lunch. There are bright prospects for having the Maccabees school of instruction held here in September.

All members are requested to meet at P. H. C. hall next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings for guard drill work. Lady Ellsworth was loud in her praise of Charleroi Hive.

For the present the socials will continue to be held at the homes of members. The committee will make it known later where the next one is to be held.

Political Advertising.

Announcement.

To the Republican voters of the Twenty-fourth Congressional district:

In becoming a candidate I fully realize the issues which are before the people of the Nation and of this State. As an ardent admirer of Theodore Roosevelt, as a firm believer in the policies which he stood for, I shall earnestly advocate all measures which are for the welfare of the people.

Aldrichism and Cannonism represent the selfish interests which stand upon special privilege against the general welfare of the whole people.

The duties of a member of Congress are National, but in Pennsylvania the office has been made an asset of the State machine. The candidates for Congress through the State are as carefully selected as the candidates for the Legislature the idea being that the patronage of a Congressman belongs absolutely to the Penrose-Oliver machine. A Congressman, so selected, being under such obligations to the machine, is not free to act for the public good.

The lavish use of money in politics has become deplorable. The present member of Congress, in the sworn statement filed by him following the primary election two years ago, admitted that he has expended about $14,000. It has been freely stated and not contradicted that the selfish interests, inside and outside of the district, contributed an additional sum of $50,000 and that at least 3,000 illegal votes were cast in one county in the district.

The voters of the district under the present primary system select their candidate without regard to county lines, but there can be no criticism of the candidates being from Beaver county, as this county, in the past 35 years, has had but two Congressmen serving for a total of eight years.

With the statement, in which I have endeavored to be sincere and candid, I submit the issue to the good citizenship of the district.

PERFECT FLIERS.

Eagles, Vultures and Similar Birds Are In This Class.

It is a fact that those ingenious and daring minds that devote themselves to the solution of the problem of aviation have given no small part of their preliminary study to considering the manner of flight of birds.

A strange result of this investigation is the conclusion, now generally indorsed, that, as a whole, the bird world is not to be regarded as perfect in its attainment of flight. For instance, it is contended by the best authorities that all birds obliged continually to flap their wings—and in this category may be mentioned sparrows, finches, thrushes, crows, etc.—are still in an imperfect stage of advancement.

In the next class, as being a degree advanced, are put such birds as pigeons, swallows, etc., which are able to dart ahead for a space after they have gained a good start by the vigorous flapping of their pinions.

In the third class the birds that may be said to be perfect fliers are the eagles, vultures, albatrosses and similar big birds possessing the ability to rise and fall and sway and soar in the air indefinitely without a perceptible movement of their wings. It is, of course, known to every person of an observant turn that these birds are able to soar into the air gradually until at last they disappear from the eye of the watcher, it being almost impossible to detect any movement beyond a slight occasional motion of the tail.—New York Tribune.

A QUICK CHANGE.

From the Desire For Comfort to the Craze For Speed.

Mr. Newcar (about to start on his first trip in his recently purchased motor car, to his chauffeur—Now, William, I want it thoroughly understood I will not have fast driving. Always keep well under the legal limit—not as close to it as you can. Ten miles an hour is fast enough for me. What I want is comfort, not excitement. Do you understand?

Three days later. "Er—er—William, I must be back to the house by 7 o'clock. This road seems very straight and wide. Don't you think you might go just a little faster without danger?"

Two days later. "William, this dust is very unpleasant. If you could pass that car ahead—it seems to be going rather slowly."

Next day. "Put on a little more speed, William. There's no use in being a crank. This road is too good to lose the chance."

A week later. "Open her up, William! There are no police within five miles, I'll bet, and if there are who cares? I'm out for fun! Let her zip! Let her zip! This is no steam roller! Let's have some speed!"—Life.

Monkey and Goat.

Monkeys are more renowned for mischief than for kindness, but even monkeys can be benevolent. M. Mouton records the doings of one in Guadeloupe that surely seemed to merit that reputation. This monkey had a friend in a goat that went daily to the pasture. Every night the monkey would pick out the burs and thorns, sometimes to the number of 2,000 or 3,000, from the goat's fleece, in order that the animal might lie down in peace. On coming in from the pasture the goat promptly went in search of his light handed friend and submitted himself to the operation. Strange to say the tricky instincts of the monkey reasserted themselves after the pricks were removed. He would tease the poor goat unmercifully, plucking his beard, poking him in the eyes and pulling out his hairs. The goat bore it all with patience, perhaps regarding it as only a fair price to be paid for the removal of the thorns.—London Standard.

TRIFLES THAT COUNT.

To skim grease from soup in a hurry use square sheets of clean tissue paper on the surface of the soup. Lay them on one at a time, lift off lightly, and every bit of fat comes off.

Icing that has not boiled long enough can be put back on the fire after it has been mixed in the white of egg provided an asbestus mat is used beneath.

Do not wear a winter suit that must do duty another season too late in the spring. It is more economical to buy a cheap lightweight suit rather than risk the dust and general shabbiness of wearing a good cloth one on hot days.

A box of clean sand kept in the kitchen will be found excellent for hasty cleaning of blackened pots, pans and rusty knives.

When the handles have pulled off the lids of pots or pans cut a spool in half and fasten it to the lid with a screw and nut.

Glass shelves and towel rods in a bathroom save the time and temper of the cleaner. The chief objection to these fixings is the cost. If one watches marked down sales they can often be picked up at half price.

Cruel.

"I'm developing quite a passion for [illegible]. I wonder if it's harmful."

"Quite the contrary," replied Miss Cutting. "I should think it would be very becoming to you."

"How do you mean becoming?"

"Well, you know, dear, you can wear a mask while metoring."—St. Louis Republic.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUSIGNONT, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

JOS. G. GODISSART'S SHOE SALE

THE TALK OF THE TOWN

People have come from miles to buy their shoes. Never before has such a slaughter in prices taken place. Our store has been crowded every day since the sale started. For 12 years Mr. Godissart has been doing business in Charleroi. His reputation as a reliable merchant is well known, always handled only "Standard Brand" of shoes, but circumstances have arisen on account of ill health, to dispose of his business and move West. That makes it imperative for him to annihilate every pair of shoes in his stock, and to that end we have made the greatest preparation ever undertaken in the history of any business house. 25,000 of these circulars and large newspaper advertisements will be thrown broadcast to inform the people for a radius of 50 miles, surpassing the efforts of previous sales and future sales for many years to come. It is a money-saving event for you.

A most sensational annihilation of former profits, a stupendious catastrophe, a supreme sacrifice of $15,000 worth of new Spring shoes for everybody, for less than the cost of raw material---impress upon your mind. Your Easter shoes for less than wholesale cost. Up to date goods.

Prices shattered to atoms, not even the skeleton of regular store prices remain. COME EARLY. $1 will do the work at this sale as $3 did before. Don't delay, be one of the hundreds that attended this Great Slaughter Sale. Make hay while the sun shines. Never again will you have the opportunity of buying shoes at such prices.

Remember that all our spring goods for men and women are included in this sale. Ralston Health Shoe, Florseim, Walk-About. Fellow-Craft, Red Cross and Buster Brown. For lack of space we will only mention a few of our prices:

AN AGITATED YOUNG MAN.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

Young Mr. Graham, the grandson of a grandmother who had brought him up in the way he should go, took a chair car from Philadelphia to New York on a certain date and found the chair on his right occupied by a very good looking and self composed young lady. When she dropped her handkerchief he ought to have picked it up and restored it, but he didn't. When she had trouble opening her hand bag he ought to have proffered his services, but he didn't. When her hatpin worked out and fell at his feet there was opportunity for him to prove himself a hero, but he wasn't up to it. His grandmother had warned him over and over again of the consequences of too much forwardness. He was agitated, but it went no further. Of course when the young lady realized what sort of young man he was she gave him the cold shoulder. She asked the porter to raise the window for her and to bring her a glass of water and if she would be sure to make connection with the Long Island train for Hempstead.

Young Mr. Graham felt his position keenly, but opportunity had fled. Reaching New York, he would have given worlds to warn the young lady not to take the Twenty-third street ferry by mistake for the Thirty-fourth, but he had his chance and lost. It was while he was hanging back that he discovered her purse where it had dropped while she was picking up her traps. He started to rush after her to restore it, but in his agitation addressed a stately old dame who took him for a confidence man and threatened to have him arrested. When he came to overhaul the purse he found that it contained $1.80 and a trunk key. He reasoned it out that this was all the loser had with her and that when landing on the New York side she would find herself in an embarrassing situation. How was she to cross the Island? How pay her fare to Hempstead?

Here was more agitation, and it ended in the young man taking the next ferryboat. He did not find her weeping in the ferryhouse on the other side. He was also disappointed in not finding her in the East river house.

He crossed the river to the Long Island depot, but the object of his search was not there. It was a bad night Mr. Graham put in, and it was made longer and the worse for a sudden thought that came to him about midnight. The purse contained less than $2. The young lady's dress and jewelry showed that she belonged to a wealthy family. To restore such a lean purse to her would humiliate her; it certainly would. She would probably refuse to claim ownership and look upon him with withering scorn. After turning the matter over in his mind for three hours young Mr. Graham saw his way clear. He would add $5 to the contents of the purse.

Hempstead is not an overgrown town, and a persevering young man like Mr. Graham can find lots of things if he becomes chummy with the hackmen. It wasn't two hours before our hero had the name of the young girl and her abiding place. She was living with her widower of a father less than a mile away. It took him two hours to quell his agitation and make up his mind to drive to the house, but at last the thing was done. It seemed as if luck was with him. When the carriage stopped he beheld the selfsame young lady sitting on the veranda with a book in her hand.

"Beg pardon," he said, "but I was your fellow traveler from Philadelphia yesterday, and when you left the chair car I found this on the floor."

"But—but I don't understand," replied the young lady as she received the purse. "I didn't speak to you, and how did you know where I lived?"

"Why, while I was not listening—believe me, I was not—I heard you ask the porter about the train for Hempstead."

"Yes, I believe I did. I was dreadfully afraid I'd miss it. Won't you sit down? This was only my change purse, you know. I missed it, but it was of no account, except that it held the key to my trunk. However, I thank you, and"—

And she opened the purse to view the contents. There was her dollar-eighty, and a five dollar bill besides. She looked up in a puzzled way and said:

"This can't be mine."

"But I found it under your chair, miss."

"But how did this other money come here? I'm sure I hadn't it."

Mr. Graham turned red. His tongue refused to move. He saw the yawning pit and mopped his forehead, but it was too late. The situation had become full of tacks when the young lady's father appeared. He was a stern faced old colonel.

"Sir, explain your game!" he said after a few words of explanation from the daughter.

He asked an impossibility. How could such a thing be explained? Father and daughter looked at the blushing, agitated young man for a moment, and then the father took him by the arm and led him down to the gate and put the purse into his hand and said:

"Come with the green goods next time."

And when he had returned to the veranda and they had watched young Mr. Graham down the road for forty rods the daughter observed:

"Papa, I wish you hadn't. It would have been such a novelty to get acquainted with an agitated young man."

GIFT TO MRS. ROOSEVELT.

Ladies of Official Circle Present Diamond Necklace to Her.

Several days before Mrs. Roosevelt left the White House a number of her most intimate friends presented her with a beautiful diamond necklace which was purchased with funds raised by subscription among the ladies who have been most closely associated with her during her residence in the White House.

The collection of the fund, the purchase of the gift and its presentation have all been guarded carefully by those interested in making the present, and it was their intention to have prevented any publicity in connection with it. But it has become known that Miss May Williams, daughter of the late C. A. Williams of New London, Conn., had acted as the treasurer of the fund and that Mrs. L. Z. Leiter had headed the list of subscribers. It is understood that the amount raised for the purchase of the necklace was several thousand dollars.

The first Christmas after Mr. Roosevelt became president the ladies of the cabinet, most of whom had held a similar relation toward Mrs. McKinley, carried out a custom of that time by making a combined Christmas present to the president's wife. After considerable consultation a gold purse was decided upon. Mrs. John Hay was the custodian of the fund on that occasion, and Mrs. Root, Mrs. Gage and Mrs. Hitchcock were among the contributors.

When Mrs. Cleveland was leaving the White House for the second time the ladies of the cabinet presented her with a superb ring in diamonds and sapphires, which has been one of her most prized possessions ever since. Only the ladies of the cabinet were represented in this gift, which was made so quietly that no one but Mrs. Cleveland and her immediate circle knew anything about it.

Bishop Butler's Generosity.

So many examples of episcopal cupidity have been cited of late that the average reader may be excused for believing the bishop of a century or so ago to have been an incarnation of greed. But against the Luxmores, the Watsons and the Porteouses may be set the saintly Butler, whose "Analogy" is still used as a text book for clerical examinations. Butler kept open house at Durham, where he dispensed hospitality with a lavish hand. On one occasion a man called at the palace soliciting a subscription for some charitable object. "How much money is there in the house?" asked Butler of his secretary. The secretary after investigation replied that there was £500. "Give it to him, then," replied the philosopher bishop, "for it is a shame that a bishop should have so much."—London Chronicle.

Hindsight.

"I made enough money in Wall street last week to buy a house and lot."

"Did you buy it?"

"Well, no; but I wish I had."—New York Herald.

Why She Did It.

"Why is it," they asked, "that you let your husband have his own way in everything?"

"Because," she replied, "I like to have some one to blame when things go wrong."

The Alvin—Pittsburg.

An unusually strong attraction will hold the boards at the Alvin Theatre during the week of March 28, when the Jefferson de Angelis compay in "The Beauty Spot" comes to that theatre.

"The Beauty Spot" has enjoyed the most successful seaon of any musical play on the road this year. Its book and lyrics by Joseph W. Herbert are said to be the best this well known writer has turned out in many seasons. The music of Reginald De Koven is said to be the best that this master of melody has composed since "Robin Hood;" each number is a musical gem of the whistling tuneful variety. Without a doubt Pittsburg will be whistling and singing such catchy numbers from the play as "Oeole Days," "The Hammock Love Song," "A Prince of Boreno," "She Sells Sea Shells," "He Loved Her Tender," before the conclusion of the play's engagement in this city.

The production will be identically the same as it was during its successful run of over six month at the Herald Square Theatre with the same capable company. This include such well known players as George J. MacFalane, Fank Deane, Viola Gillette, Isabel D'Armond, Jacques Kruger, Alf Deball, Jean Newcomber, Catherine Bowen and Frances Burns.

A feature of the company is the famous beauties in the supporting chorus; each and every one is a prize winner and their appealing love lines has caused a sensation in every city they have played.

There are other elements of success in "The Beauty Spot" and one of them worthy of mention is the dancing; especially true is this of the Boulevard Glide, a Parisian importation, which danced by Mr. de Angelis and Miss Burns proves to be the most seductive since the Merry Widow waltz. Two popular priced matinees will be given during the engagement.

Dancing School.

Prof. Oatman's Dancing School every Tuesday night in the Bank of Charleroi Hall. Private lessons by appointment. Beginner's class 8 to 9, social dance 9 to 12, Maxwell Orchestra. New dances will be taught.

AN INDIAN MURDERER.

His Fearful Punishment by a Primitive Mexican Tribe.

Speaking of effective law among the Mexican Indians brings to mind a curious case that was told me some years ago in the city of Oaxaca by an old Zapoteca chief who had become a convert to [illegible]

He said that [illegible] an American botanist was traveling through the mountains of Oaxaca studying the rare and beautiful flora of that region. He had with him a mozo from another part of the country.

He carried several gold pieces sewed in the lining of his vest. The mozo became aware of this fact and one day when the botanist got down on his knees to drink at a mountain spring the mozo cut his throat with a machete, took the gold pieces and fled to the higher sierras.

Not long after the body was found by some Zapoteca Indians who had seen the botanist in former days studying the flowers and plants near their village. They knew that he was a harmless and good man because he loved flowers. All Mexican Indians love flowers. So they took the body to the chief and told him what they had seen and found. "What!" he said. "Shall the kind stranger with the white face who loved flowers and sought not our goods nor insulted our women come to such a dog's death among us and not be avenged?"

He then dispatched four swift Indian runners in different directions with orders not to return without the murderer. After a week's time they returned bearing the malefactor bound in their midst. A council of old men was called, and the case was examined. The guilt of the mozo was proved, as he still had with him the strange pieces of gold.

Then the old chief gave the sentence. It was speedily performed. They led the trembling murderer to the center of the little plaza. There four green stakes were driven in the ground. The murderer was stripped naked and stretched by the wrists and feet in the air among the four stakes, to which he was lashed. Then the Indians made a great heap of unslaked lime under the wretched man's body, and when the heap touched his breast and sides they poured water over it until the scalding steam of the burning lime had cooked all the flesh from the bones. Then they took the bones and threw them into a hole on the mountain side.

And so was the stain of the murdered man's blood covered and vengeance was wrought by the Indians in behalf of "the white stranger who was good and loved flowers."—Mexican Exchange.

WORTHY OF CONFIDENCE

We pay for all the medicine used during the trial, if our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obligated to us in any way whatever, if you accept our offer. That's a mghty broad statement, but we mean every word of it. Could anything be more fair for you?

A most scientific, common-sense treatment is Rexall Orderlies, which are eaten like candy. Their active principle is a recent scientific discovery that is odorless, colorless and tasteless; very pronounced, gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. This ingredient does not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping or any inconvenience whatever. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons.

If you suffer from chronic or habitual constipation, or the associate or dependent chronic ailments, we urge you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Remember you can get them in Charleroi only at our store. 12 tablets 10 cents; 36 tablets 22 cents.—The Rexall Store, John W. Carroll.

COMPLEXION ILLS

These are the days when a women must give regular, thoughtful care to her complexion, if she would retain its elusive bloom of youth. As every woman knows, this can only be done by intelligent use of a high grade face cream, used in connection with massage of a helpful sort. Doubtless more complexions have been injured by harmful, unscientific massage, than in in any other way. Lasting and satisfactory efforts can best be secured by the use of Crown Cream and a Harlan Beauty Cup. Crown Cream alone is so helpful, cleansing and nourishing to the skin that many women use it without massage.

But as the Harlan Beauty Cup makes perfect massage automatic, these two toilet essentials should always be used together.

Crown Cream has a wonderful effect upon poor and lifeless complexions and seems to clear from the face the marks of time in a manner almost miraculous. Regularly used, all skin blotches and blemishes quickly disappear, and the complexion is given the tone it needs to withstand the ravages of wind and sun.

Ask your dealer if he has these goods, and accept no substitute for them. If he is not supplied, they will be sent prepaid to your address from the Harlan Mfg Co., Toledo, Ohio, upon receipt of price, which is 50c a jar for the Crown Cream. and 50c the Beauty Cup.
